HOOVER SEEN AS CANDIDATE AGAIN IN 1936

FORMER PRESIDENT RAPS NEW DEAL IN ARTICLE

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 4 (AP)—Washington searched Herbert Hoover's fortright criticism of the new deal for signposts pointing toward 1936 today while administration champions leaped to the defense of the Roosevelt policies.

Quickly the searchers came to the conclusion that Mr. Hoover had so timed his utterance as to furnish the keynote for Republican efforts to regain lost seats in congress this fall and, at the very least, was keeping his name before the public in connection with things political.

Candidate in 1936?

Beyond that, it was the general belief that much depends upon the future, and the immediate future, at that. If his article in today's Saturday Evening Post summarizing the new deal as a colossal invasion of human liberties, and his forthcoming book, are followed by other activities as the campaign progresses, the concensus was that a further conclusion is inescapable.

This would be that Mr. Hoover is assuming actively his post as titular head of the Republican party, and that despite his overwhelming defeat in 1932 he still reckons himself a political force that must be dealt with when the Republicans select their presidential nominee two years hence.

If this is the case, no direct announcement of his candidacy could be expected until the spring of 1936. No one would expect such a statement until then. It is politically axiomatic, however, that a former president is always a possible contender, especially if his stay in the White House ended after a single term.

In his article Mr. Hoover asserted that the American people are now faced with "the primary issue of humanity and all government,—the issue of human liberty;" that the question to be settled was whether man should be subservient to the state or the state subservient to man.

Secretary Ickes, once a Republican himself, but now an ardent new dealer, asked first of all in comment on the article that Mr. Hoover be more explicit in stating his conception and definition of the word "liberty."

Denies Regimentation

"He doesn't seem and those who think with him—to be concerned about liberty of the average man and woman, that they have a fair chance, a decent living, and jobs at fair wages," said Ickes.

"Who is being deprived of liberty? It is not the liberty of the great mass of people they are worrying about but the liberty of a small privileged class that has been allowed to acquire property by exploiting people.

"The government has not practiced regimentation, industry has. The whole theory of great output is based on regimentation. None of us would have had any liberty if our forefathers had not fought for it. It is not an inalienable right and it will be taken away unless we

Jobless Father Is Held For Murder; Poisoned Children

Pittsburgh, Sept. 4 (AP)—A 30-year old unemployed father was charged with murder late today after police announced he confessed placing poison in an apple pie and feeding it to his three children, causing the death of one.

Eight year old Raymond Grabowski is dead and his brother, Stanley, aged 9, is in critical condition in a hospital. The third child, Anna Marie, 4, has recovered.

Stanley Grabowski, Sr., the father, in his alleged confession to officers, admitted he tried to kill all his children and himself.

He had partaken of the pie, too, he said, but was little affected by the poison.

Grabowski said he bought the poison at a drug store of 32 cents—borrowed from a store keeper who sold him the pie.

Police quoted Grabowski as saying he wished to kill his children and himself because of domestic discord.

ARCH FELONS PUT ON ISLAND

103 Federal Prisoners Sent to Alcatraz Penitentiary

San Francisco, Sept. 4. (AP)—The convict population of Alcatraz, bleak island of rock and steel in San Francisco Bay, was swelled to 211 today with the arrival of 103 assorted kidnapers, robbers, gunmen and desperadoes from Leavenworth federal penitentiary.

Among the grim contingent shunted into the new prison in shackles and under the muzzles of machine guns were George (Machine Gun) Kelly, Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, abductors of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire.

Extreme precautions marked the transfer of the prisoners in an armored, heavily guarded train to the frowning island which has served well as a prison and fortress under three flags.

As was the case when Al Capone, former No. 1 public enemy and half a hundred others were shifted to the prison recently from Atlanta, the armored cars were rolled onto a train barge and ferried to Alcatraz.

Room for About 600

Between a double line of federal agents bristling with arms the prisoners shuffled. In a few minutes they were behind the new steel bars installed by the government in an effort to make escape well-nigh impossible.

Prison officers would not talk about the transfer and would not name the felons involved.

The arrival of Kelly, Bailey and Bates, regarded by the government as three of the most dangerous criminals of the kidnaping era, was an official secret until announced by the department of justice in Washington. The announcement was made a few hours after the transfer was completed.

What the future at Alcatraz holds for Capone, Kelly and the others remained an untold story. A fully equipped laundry, in use when Alcatraz was an army prison, is to be operated. Other prisoners will be assigned to a shoe factory and a machine shop which have not yet been completed.

Alcatraz has room for about 600 prisoners. Its location offers them little or no opportunity to escape and no possibility of communicating with the outside world.

No Food Shortage In Michigan This Winter, Says Haber

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP)—There will be no serious food shortage in Michigan this winter, according to a statement today by William Haber, state emergency welfare relief administrator.

Haber said this state is in "as good a position as any in the union" as far as food prospects are concerned. There may be some shortage in meat but most other foods will be comparatively plentiful, he stated.

Fumigating Gas Is Fatal To Child, 4

Flint, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP)—William Lee, 4, of Flint, was killed this afternoon when he smashed a window and got into the home of his parents which was being fumigated. The deadly gas caused his death. The child's mother is ill and the boy had been left with a neighbor. He escaped her vigilance and ran to his home, breaking a window and climbing into a room filled with a fumigating gas.

Automatic Shotgun In Hands of Truck Driver Slays Five

Fulton, Ill., Sept. 3 (AP)—Five persons were slain today by the murderous shotgun of Fred Blink, Fulton truck operator, before a police bullet brought him down, his gun still smoking, near the approach of the Mississippi river. At a hospital in nearby Clinton, Iowa, Blink told authorities he had killed two more victims.

Blink was arrested after he was wounded twice, once when he attempted to turn his shotgun on himself, and then by Frank Kustes, Fulton policeman, who saw Blink's weapon end the life of John Hamilton, Fulton farmer, at the bridge approach.

Another Man Wounded

Kustes captured Blink after an exchange of shots and took him to the Clinton, Iowa, hospital where he was placed under arrest.

Another man, unidentified, was seriously wounded at the bridge approach before Blink surrendered to the officer.

Blink did not lose consciousness and told police he had killed seven persons.

The known dead beside Hamilton are:

Harry Menje, Fulton.

Mrs. Tim H. Corrick, Jr., Des Moines, Iowa.

A Mrs. Walters of Fulton.

An unidentified man about 70 years old.

The bodies of four victims were found in a welter of blood in the John Hamilton farm house a mile north of here. They were the unidentified man, Menje, Mrs. Corrick and Mrs. Walters.

Whether Blink pursued Hamilton from the farm to the bridge approach, a mile away, could not be learned.

Patrolman Kustes, who had been in Clinton, across the river from here, was returning home when he heard the sound of Blink's automatic shotgun and saw Hamilton fall to the middle of the paving of the bridge approach under its hail.

He stopped his car and from behind it opened fire with his pistol. Blink, at the same time, turned the gun on himself, wounding himself in the face.

One of Kustes' bullets found its mark, and Blink fell to the pavement. An oil station attendant, C. Wiersema, witnessed Hamilton's slaying and Blink's capture.

The victisms at the farm were apparently shot to death while they cowered against the wall of the homestead.

The bodies were found by a searching party which went to the farm after Blink made his statement to police.

Police also were searching for Lee Hamilton, brother of the dead man, and Fred Van Zuiden. They feared that both had been slain or wounded after Blink's statement that his gun had felled seven victims.

Police went to Blink's home in Fulton where they questioned his wife to seek a possible motive for the killings.

According to police, Mrs. Blink said that her husband operated the

BULLET KILLS RUSS COLOMBO

Accidental Discharge of Old Gun Fatal to Singer Sunday

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 4 (AP)—Howard Nutt, head of the police research laboratory, announced tonight he had found a charge of powder in the mate of the ancient dueling pistol which late Sunday cut short the spectacular career of Russ Colombo, actor-singer-orchestra leader.

The mate, a replica of the pistol which was accidentally discharged in the hands of Lansing V. Brown, Jr., portrait photographer and old friend of the singer, was taken from Brown's house today for examination by police.

Nutt said the barrell was half filled with black powder firmly packed in with old paper wadding, but contained no leaden ball.

The police expert said unless one looked directly into the barrel of the pistol, an ordinary observer could not tell the weapon was loaded.

Services Thursday

The powder taken from the mate of the death gun was in good condition and would readily ignite, Nutt asserted, if the hammer of the pistol was snapped down on the head of a match, such as occurred Sunday afternoon in Brown's home.

Nutt corroborated the opinion expressed by Brown that the pistols may have been loaded many years ago with black powder. Brown said he purchased the weapons about seven years ago from an antique dealer. He had never known the pistols were loaded, he said.

Funeral services for Columbo will be held Thursday morning but burial will be deferred pendind the outcome of a critical heart ailment which is confining Mrs. Julio Columbo, the singer's mother, in a Santa Monica hospital.

Mrs. Columbo has not yet been told of her son's death.

In response to her inquiries for "Ruggerio" (Russ), the youngest of her 12 children, Mrs. Columbo has been told he has gone "on location" with his film company.

Funeral services will be held from the Blessed Sacrament church.

The active pall bearers, all intimate friends and fellow palyers of the singer, will include Bing Crosby, Gilbert Roland, Walter Lang, Stuart Peters, Lowell Sherman and Sheldon Keate Gallway.

BIZARRE TALE OF SUBMARINE TRADE SIFTED

COMPANIES OF TWO NATIONS UNITE IN MONOPOLY

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 4 (AP)—Disclosures that two American and British armament makers had combined to dominate world submarine building, with Sir Basil Zaharoff as their supersalesman, were written today into the open records of the senate munitions investigating committee.

The bizzarre story, studded with hints of international intrigue, was unfolded during the day-long questioning of three officials of the Electric Boat Company of New London and New York.

Letters Introduced

This concern, now building submarines for the United States navy, was shown to have an arrangement with Vickers, Ltd., foremost of British armament companies, through which business was divided and few submarines were constructed throughout the world without one or the other getting a share in the profits.

Letters written by the mysterious Zaharoff, probably the first ever published, were introduced to show that in 1925 he had directed officers of the Electric Boat company to ask that the state department have the American ambassador in Spain, Alexander P. Moore, use his influence to have the firm making submarines for the Spanish government keep its contract with Electric Boat.

"When you inform me that your government has given the necessary instructions to their ambassador in Madrid," wrote Sir Basil, "I will have no difficulty in persuading the British to do ditto, ditto, ditto."

Still on the stand when the hearings closed for the night were Henry R. Carse, president of Electric Boat, a low-voiced, unflurried business man; L. Y. Spear, vice president, hawk-nosed, tanned and broad of shoulders; Henry R. Suthphin, another vice president, heavy-set and solemn faced. They will resume again tomorrow.

From the moment they took the oath at 10 a. m., there poured out a series of revelations about a business surrounded by rumor, whisper and mystery.

Among them were:

(1) A letter, transmitted by Carse in 1917, containing the suggestion by a firm of lawyers that Zaharoff avoid payment of income tax to the United States on money received from the Electric Boat company.

$766,000 In Salaries

(2) A letter from Zaharoff that he had received a large payment from Electric Boat with which he was "doing the needful"—a disclosure immediately followed by intimations by committee members that some of it was used for bribery.

(3) A contract between the Electric Boat Company and Vickers in 1924 by which they devided up the business of submarine making for the world.

(4) That the Electric Boat Company paid Zaharoff $766,000 from 1919 to 1930. The amount paid from 1912 to 1919 was not revealed, although records indicated it might approximate $1,360,000.

(5) The statement by Spear that the commission of 5 per cent on all profits from the Spanish business was "unusually high" by comparison with other commissions.

(6) A letter indicating that Vickers was sharing its profits

ALL ON RELIEF WILL GET JOBS

Heavy Welfare Burden Is Expected This Winter by William Haber

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 4 (AP)—A job for every person on relief in Michigan was the promise held out today by Dr William Haber, state relief administrator, during the coming winter season.

The administrator announced that plans have gone forward to Washington for a program that will put every able bodied person on relief into some work activity.

Dr. Haber announced plans for the new program while prophesying that relief needs will skyrocket to a new high peak this winter. He predicted 200,000 families will be on relief rolls compared with a peak of 180,000 last year. The monthly budget from now until the end of the winter season, he believes, will be in excess of $5,000,000.

The program will not mean that every unemployed in the state will be given a job. There are some 450,000 persons that are not working today and only 165,000 of them are on the relief rolls. In addition, a survey made by the administrator's office shows that 36 per cent of those on the relief rolls are unemployable by reason of disabilities, age, or for kindred reasons, some 23,000 of them are over 60 years of age.

Heavy Burden

In Dr. Haber's words, the state can transfer 40,000 persons to the work division of the emergency relief program without increasing the relief population. Out of the 165,000 families on the relief rolls today, some 60,000 are working.

The anticipated program will cost from 25 to 50 per cent more than a direct dole, Dr. Haber admitted, but said it is worth it from a viewpoint of human morale and benefits to public property.

"We could save possibly $2,000,000 a month if there were no work relief projects," Dr. Haber continued. "In the first place such a program increases the case load. Many of the destitute will enroll in such a program where they are paid for a definite job but would not, out of pride, participate in a direct dole. Then there are the items of addi-

Archduke Otto to Wed Princess Maria, Italy

BY ANDRUE BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Viareggio, Italy, Sept. 4 (AP)—Italy's king and queen met Austria's erstwhile empress quietly here today, and decided to link the two dynasties in matrimony.

The royal conclave, it was learned, approved the engagement of Archduke Otto, Hapsburg pretender to the Austrian throne, to marry Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena of Italy.

Match Confirmed

No formal announcement of the oft-rumored engagement was issued, but Prince Felix, prince consort of the grand duchess of Louxembourg who is visiting former Empress Zita of Austria here, confirmed to the Associated Press the fact that the match had been made.

The official announcement, it was understood, would be delayed pending clarification of Otto's position in reference to the restoration of the monarchy in Austria and Hungary.

So unostentatious was the arrival of Italy's regents, accompanied by the pretty Princess Maria, at the semi-deserted Villa Pianore where the Bourbon-Hapsbug villa stands that few residents of Viareggio knew they were within miles of the city.

A closed limousine brought the royal party from their summer residence at San Rossore, and they drove directly to the villa where Zita has been living for the past month.

Hapsburg retainers saluted them as the gates swung wide, and Zita welcomed them immediately into

UPTON SINCLAIR PAYS FDR VISIT

Talk With President at Hyde Park Interesting, He Says

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Radiating enthusiasm, Upton Sinclair, California's "epic" plan Democratic gubernatorial nominee, left the summer White House tonight after "the most interesting two-hours talk I ever had in my life."

The former Socialist and novelist left for New York to talk with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, fired with fight for the new deal and his own "epic" plan to end poverty in California which he said had the same objective.

The sparse, gray, curly-haired Democratic nominee remained here a moment to keep an appointment with newspapermen in which he lashed back at Norman Thomas, Socialist leader and recent critic, and at Herbert Hoover whom he termed the "friend of the millionaires."

A Fine Impression

But not a word would he say about what he and the president talked about. He explained "I don't want to use the president's home as a place to exploit my ideas."

"I talked with one of the most kind, genial, frank, open minded and lovable men I have ever met," Sinclair said.

"We talked for two hours and that was his fault and not mine. He asked me to tell you that. I didn't intend to stay but an hour but he asked me to continue.

"We sit out in California and speculate as to what he is doing and what he knows about it. I

Both Factions Claim Victory; Tension Grows

BY DONALD CAMERON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 4 (AP)—The greatest textile strike yet to afflict the nation gained rapid momentum tonight but apparently failed to reach the goal set by labor—a 50 percent tie-up before midnight.

Increasing scenes of violence marked the walkout. Tension grew in many sections as "flying squadrons" of union pickets made spectacular dashes in an effort to close mills still operating.

National guardsmen were on duty in South Carolina. Armed guards patrolled mills in other states. Fists flew and taunts were hurled as non-union workers sought to push through picket lines into widely separated mills.

Leaders Satisfied

An Associated Press tabulation placed the number on strike during the afternoon at 199,900, out of 653,200 normally employed in the three main sections of the industry cotton, silk and wool.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the Union's strike committee, asserted the number was "easily 300,000" and declared the strike "has exceeded our expectations."

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, and Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, said today's response stamped the walkout as a failure.

"What the test has disclosed thus far—above all other things," said Sloan, "Is that a great majority of the workers in the cotton industry are not in sympathy with the strike and desire to remain at their places."

Both Sloan and Gorman arranged to take their cases to the public tonight in nation-wide addresses.

Another division of the industry, the silk throwers, numbering 25,000, mostly in Pennsylvania, were ordered out tomorrow.

Meanwhile, reports were received at strike headquarters that overtures already had been made toward settlement of the Cleveland cloth mill at Shelby, N. C., one of the largest in the south. Gorman indicated the strike committee would not oppose an individual agreement, provided the union demands were met.

From union organizers came reports that police had broken picket lines, and that at one plant a company union, heavily armed, had been placed on guard with orders to shot to kill. Gorman angrily sent a telegram to Governor Ehringhaus of North Carolina asking protection for the strikers.

Effective in South

The strike was most effective in the south, with great textile centers completely shut down. New England was less affected, but the industry was idle in two huge centers, Manchester, N. H., and New Bedford, Mass.

Confident, but grave, during the morning, Gorman became exultant as afternoon reports poured in from the field.

"It's going over with a bang," he shouted as he slapped Emil Rieve, another member of the committee.

To reporters he said:

"The number out is easily 300,000. By tomorrow morning thousands more will be on strike. We repeatedly estimated a 50 percent walkout the first day. All reports show that our estimate has been surpassed.

"Union members responded to the strike call like a trained army. Non-union workers are flocking out by the thousand.

"Mills that remained open today and that were able to operate with unorganized workers include the worst chiselers in the business. Mill after mill will close tomorrow until by the end of the week our prediction of an 85 percent shut-down will be realized."

John Redmond, an A. F. of L. organizer at Charlotte, N. C., sent word that "there won't be a mill open below the Mason-Dixon line by Saturday."

Gorman professed entire satisfaction with developments, and expressed no concern at the situation in New England.

"We knew what the situation was when we started this thing," he said. "That's why we predicted 50 percent the first day and 85 percent by the end of the week. We'll get to these mills, after we get our own members out."

Gorman today wrote Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, to deny that the union based its strike on any assurance that strikers would be fed with federal funds.

"I have sought as best I could to correct these reports," he wrote.

FEDERALS SPUR WAR ON CRIME

Professionals Who Help Underworld Target In Campaign

Chicago, Sept. 4 (AP) Government guns were trained today on professional people who extend illegal aid to the underworld.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings made the announcement of the new drive in this statement:

"We will seize those who profit by crime without apparently taking any risks."

Cummings travelling to Washington from Hawaii to press the anti-felon tight with renewed vigor, also disclosed that he would summon leading law enforcement officials to a conference in December.

Experts in crime detection and prevention and police chiefs and secret service men will exchange information and advice, he said, and his department will push its campaign to popularize the war on malefactors.

Praises Officials

The attorney general extended congratulations to Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago staff of federal agents who recently jailed John Dillinger's attorney, Louis Piquett, two physicians and four other persons on charges of abetting the desperado and his ace marksman, Homer Van Meter, both recently slain by the authorities.

"That's good work," he declared. "We started a campaign that now has resulted in the arrest of several such people as Piquett and his associates. We are determined to continue this campaign and get at the underlying causes of crime. We expect to force this campaign through and get a lot of others. We have a tight case against Piquett and his associates."

Federal prosecutors prepared to go before a grand jury to seek the indictment of Piquett; his special investigator, Arthur O'Leary; Dr. Harold Cassidy and Dr. William Loeser, accused of altering the Dillinger and Van Meter physiognomies; and William and Ella Finerty and Marie Conforti, charged with concealing the desperadoes during a nation-wide hunt for them.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Harry N. Connaughton said that additional counts of harboring a federal fugitive would be placed against Piquett.

Trade Agreement With Belgium Seen

Washington, Sept. 4 (AP) Reaching out to recapture lost European trade, the state department announced today that negotiations would begin immediately for a new reciprocal trade agreement with Belgium.

Open hearings on the treaty will be held in Washington on October 29, closely following hearings on proposed agreements with Brazil and Haiti.

The trade agreement negotiations are designed to give further impetus to increasing American sales abroad. Department of commerce figures made public today showed that during the first seven months of 1934 American exports amounted to $1,197,856,915 as compared with $813,438,098 during the same period in 1933.

Accused Youth Is Calm As His Trial For Murder Opens

Norman, Okla., Sept. 4 (AP) Neal Myers sat unruffled in court today as attorneys selected a jury of farmers for his murder trail on a charge of killing his co-ed sweetheart at the University of Oklahoma, 19-year-old Marian Mills.

Prosecutors elected to ask the jury to send young Myers to prison for life, although a death sentence is possible in Oklahoma upon conviction of murder.

Seated between his father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Myers of El Reno, the university junior was calm.

He wore a trim double-breasted grey suit with a shirt of the same color, and was, perhaps, the best dressed person in the packed little courtroom.

Myers fled from the deathbed of the campus beauty queen here July 10 after summoning a physician. He wandered over several states, surrendering three weeks later. Since then, he has been [illegible]

ROSS FAVORITE IN 6-5 BETTING

Champion Impressive in Workout at New York

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Sept. 4. (AP) The Manhattan faithful today got their first glimpse of dapper Barney Ross in action since the night four months ago when he stripped the welterweight championship from the weary shoulders of Jimmy McLarnin, and the sight was an eye-filling one indeed.

Bigger, faster, sharper hitting, the glittery eyed youngster from Chicago's Ghetto, first champion in all ring history to hold both the lightweight and welter crowns was so impressive in his final heavy drill that the odds immediately edged from even money to 6 to 5 in his favor.

Barney's shift in training quarters from the open air camp at Ferndale, N. Y., to the stuffy floor of Stillman's gymnasium brought a new rush of enthusiasm for the fifteen round duel in Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island that has been a trifle slow catching on.

In Great Shape

With the added impetus of returning warm weather, sales picked up and prospect was for a gate of around $150,000 when Ross dares the first-defense jinx that has dogged all welterweight champions in the past few years and McLarnin seeks to preserve a perfect record of victory in return matches with those who have beaten him the first time out. Their first battle in May, when Ross won a blistering decision, drew $194,000.

Trained to the second, scaling 139 3-4 pounds before the workout, Ross was the picture of ristic perfection as he hammered Jimmy Murray, a New York sparring partner, for two rounds and did calisthenics, bag punching and rope skipping for half a dozen more.

"I've never hit so hard as right now," he grinned through the perspiration beads as he cooled off in his dressing room. "I've never been so strong or felt so well. You'll see a better fighter whip Jimmy this time, in a different way. I'll never let up on him this time, and I'll never stop punching until he drops."

Meanwhile McLarnin remained in his camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., where he boxed Calvin Reed, negro welterweight, three fast rounds and shook his mate repeatedly with a two fisted bombardment and crashing rights to the head. Jimmy is right at the weight limit, 147 pounds.

Fur farming in Canada has developed into an industry worth more than $30,000. Mink, skunk, muskrat, marten and fox are raised on the 5520 farms established in the Dominion.

BOTH FACTIONS CLAIM VICTORY; TENSION GROWS

Our organization has had many strikes, so have all other organizations of labor. We have conducted strikes in the past, and we have managed somehow to take care of our people so that they might carry on the struggle.

"I am perfectly sure that many of the reports to the effect that we formed some advanced determination to rely on federal emergency relief were meant to be embarrassing, but it seems to me proper that I should write you at this time to clear the air and remove any misapprehension that might exist."

The policy of the relief administration is that it underwrites no strikes but authorized local relief agencies to give aid to strikers on a basis of individual need, unless the labor department finds the strike unjustified.

This principle has been attacked by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Illinois Manufacturers association, and other employer groups.

From the national labor relations board came no word of prospective peace moves, but Chairman Lloyd Garrison watched the situation closely. Gorman reiterated today the union was ready to confer with the board or anyone else at any time.

The first shooting occurred at Spartanburg, S. C., where J. L. Lewis, a mill worker, was taken to a hospital with a shotgun wound in the hip. Hospital attaches said they were told the wound was inflicted accidentally.

Like a field marshal guaging the swing of battle, Gorman busily thrust pins into a huge map of the United States to denote the points where workers had left their posts. The eastern seaboard was studded, while away off in the upper left hand corner two pins recorded small walkouts in Washington and Oregon.

Gorman's pin sticking was constantly interrupted to flash orders to lieutenants in the field. The union strategy, he explained, is to complete the walkout of union members as speedily as possible; then concentrate on non-union workers. He estimated that thousands of non-union workers already had joined the strike movement.

As reports recorded the closing of plants in the great textile centers of Manchester, N. H., New Bedford, Mass., and in the Carolinas, Gorman deployed his 1,000 organizers into other centers. The "flying squadrons" sped from mill to mill, exhorting workers to quit their looms.

Gorman predicted that the union's 300,000 members would be solidly on strike by tomorrow at the latest, and that the other 350,000 workers in the industry would be pulled out of the mills by Friday.

COURTED ARREST

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4. (AP) — Gordon Sieverson, who described himself as a University of Minnesota sophomore, tried to get himself arrested Tuesday for automobile theft, but because he did not know whose car he took or just where the theft occurred, police were puzzled about what to do. Sieverson said he drove the car only two blocks after visiting several taverns, and then, conscience stricken, abandoned it.

am very happy to be able to tell the people of California that he knows. If he knows about the other 47 states as much as he knows about California he is a marvel.

"I told him I have met two presidents of the United States. The other was Teddy Roosevelt and I don't know which is the franker. That isn't a pun. That pleased him very much.

"I told him at the start that what we talked about would not be mentioned by me."

Asked if he felt more confident about his election after talking with the president, Sinclair laughed and replied:

"I am naturally of a confident nature. I am and he is. You know he is very cheerful and a kind hearted man. He is a tonic to the nation.

To See Farley

"He told me he had only one grudge against me. That was that when he was a small boy his mother had read Jungle (a book by Sinclair condemning practices in the old Chicago stock yards) to him at the breakfast table.

"I said that spoiled your lamb chops.

"He laughed and said 'yes'."

Sinclair said that he had previously communicated with Farley and that this morning Farley had called him and arranged for an appointment tonight.

"I want to make his acquaintance," said Sinclair, "and express my loyalty to the president and tell of my hard work for the new deal."

Sinclair said he was hopeful of support in his campaign by Senators Johnson and McAdoo of California but he had no knowledge of it. He said he hoped to see Johnson in San Francisco upon his return late next week.

His attention called to today's article by Herbert Hoover in the Saturday Evening Post condemning new deal policies, Sinclair quickly replied: "What Mr. Hoover means is rights for millionaires. That is all Mr. Hoover ever thought about in his life."

KEEN SKIPPERS SET FOR RACES

Sopwith and Vanderbilt Prepare for America Cup Contests

BY TOM HORGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Newport, R. I., Sept. 4. (AP) It would be difficult to find two better equipped skippers or two keener-minded yachting strategists than the rivals who will sail the contending sloops in this year's America's cup races — Thomas Octave Murdoch Sopwith for England and Harold Stirling Vanderbilt for the United States.

They will match their craft, their crews and their sailing wits, starting Sept. 15, in a best-four-out-of-seven series of races, which most observers expect to develop the most thrilling competition in the history of the famous trophy. Granting there is little to choose in the speed between Sopwith's Endeavour or Vanderbilt's Rainbow, the outcome seems likely to hinge on the tactics of the men at the helm.

Vanderbilt Bit Shy

Vanderbilt, born to great wealth and social position fifty years ago, began sailing at the age of eight. He has many blue water triumphs to his credit, the greatest of which was his successful defense of the America's cup four years ago, when he sailed Enterprise to victory over the late Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth and last Shamrock.

Sopwith, now forty-six, began sailing small craft as a youth, but he did not become interested in racing the larger boats until relatively recent years, and it was not until Lipton's last challenger was brought home and he acquired it in 1931 that he turned his thoughts to the America's cup. That he is a man of quick decision may be judged by the fact that he gave the order for Endeavour construction almost upon the instant that Shamrock V was dismasted. He did not care to patch up Sir Tom's unsuccessful contender.

The rival skippers are not unlike in general appearance. They are tall, and well proportioned, with Vanderbilt holding about two inches edge on Sopwith. Each smiles readily and is of pleasing personality. Vanderbilt, perhaps, is a bit shy, but that may be due to the fact that he has not been in as close contact with his fellow men as Sopwith.

Treasury Studies Taxation Problem

Washington, Sept. 4. (AP) Treasury conferences will start tomorrow on how to suggest that congress raise half a billion dollars in taxes.

In the initial discussion, Secretary Morgenthau will talk with his special assistant, Dr. Roswell Magill, who has just returned from a study of tax methods employed abroad.

In disclosing to reporters today that the work here was beginning, Morgenthau declined to predict what kind of new taxes would be proposed to replace those which expire July 1, 1935.

Magill has been making a special study of English income taxes which are much higher than those in this country. England however, is free from complicated and overlapping local and state taxes.

The treasury chief also expects to receive a report soon from Dr. Jacob Viner another special assistant who has been conducting a taxation and currency survey at the head of a corps of statisticians composed largely of college professors and instructors.

tional clothing, transportation, and so forth which add to the expenditures.

Michigan's relief rolls have been increasing from 8,000 to 10,000 a month for the last four months, the administrator revealed. Twenty six counties of the state now have 25 per cent or more of their population on relief while 10 have more than 40 per cent.

In Keweenaw county, the relief load amounts to 73.3 per cent of the entire population. Other high counties include: Gogebic 50.1 per cent, Ontonagon 48.5 per cent, Houghton 40.1, Iron 40; Marquette 40; Dickson 34; Montmorency 50.2; Kalkaska 57; Roscommon 54.9, Oscoda 45.4, Kent 18, and Wayne 9.7 per cent.

There are only 35 counties in the state which participate to an extent of 25 per cent in relief costs. Dr. Haber blamed the 15-mill property tax limitation amendment largely for this small proportionate participation. The state contributes $1,000,000 a month to relief while local contributions for this month amount to only $415,000.

YACHT REGATTA BRINGS THRILLS

Boat Capsizes; Old Wreck Causes Damage; Ghost And Reuth Win

Although the weather was not the best, Escanaba's first annual yacht club regatta proved a real success Sunday with a total of 15 sailboats entered in two races, and a big crowd lining the north shore to watch the event. Some thrills and spills not scheduled on the program were provided for the added entertainment of the spectators, and there were some close contests between entries as the boats came down to the finish line before a north wind with spinnakers set.

John Mitchell's sloop, the Ghost, took first in the Class A race for boats over 20 feet, making the triangular course in 50 minutes and 27 seconds. Second place went to Gordon Aley's Nose Dive, the latter finishing in 1 hour and two minutes. The Sea Hag, a ketch owned by Lindberg Bros. of Gladstone, and the sloop Rogue, Falk-Kidd entry from Escanaba staged one of the thrillers of the race for fifth place, the Gladstone boat winning at the finish line by five seconds.

Sailors Take Spills

Handicaps were given in the Class A race, but the Class B boats started out from scratch together, and made a beautiful picture as they moved away with sails etched against the dark water and sky. Due to the disqualification of Dick Carleton's Mac, which failed to round a buoy, winners moved up a notch in the Class B event, with Anthony Bros., Reuth of Gladstone taking first and William Karas' Bennie second. Carleton's time was 1 hour and 25 minutes, and the Reuth's 1 hour, 30 minutes and 35 seconds. Karas' boat was just a half-minute behind.

Bill Fish and Dick Hoyler, in the Dolphin, capsized while jibing around the can buoy, and were sitting on the side of their boat when Ben Young's motor yacht went out to tow them back to the diving raft at the bathing beach.

Other unexpected mishaps not on the program were caused by the submerged boiler of a sunken ship which has caused trouble for unsuspecting fishermen during the present low water stage. The ruins are a short distance from the old docks on the north shore and their presence is not marked. Riley Bros. 25 foot cabin cruiser, carrying a group of race spectators, went aground on the ruins and almost capsized, spilling equipment off the deck. Two women and three children aboard were taken off by Francis Gustafson in an outboard motor boat. Earl Riley, who owns the boat with his brother Charles, fell overboard attempting to rock the cruiser free of the obstruction. The Kewaunee came to pull the Riley boat off and went around also. Another outboard motor boat hit part of the sunken wreckage and sheared off a propellor. Fredericksons cabin cruiser came to the rescue of the other boats and went onto the wreckage also, but was rocked off with the aid of rowboats and eventually pulled off the Kewaunee and the Riley cruisers.

In Eskimo Canoe

Final instructions previous to the start of the race were given by B. F. Young, who acted as referee. The course judges were Christiansen, Gasman and Thatcher.

A unique entry in the Class B event was Stuart Stoll's Eskimo kayak rigged with a sail, and equipped with the kayak type double bladed paddle. The tiny boat started out in the race with a 10 minute handicap, but turned back before rounding the buoy.

A summary of the races follows:

Class A

Ghost, Mitchell, 1, 50 min. 27 seconds.
Nosedive, Aley, 2, 1 hr., 2 min.
Marjac, Erickson, 3, 1 hr. 11 min.
Sandra, Shipman, 4, 1 24' 29"
Rogue, Falk, 6, 1 22' 5"
Gull, Gladstone, disqualified.

Class B

Reuth, Anthony, 1, 1 30" 35"
Bennie, Wm. Karas, 2, 1 31' 25"
Sea Hag, Olson, 3, 1 31'
Sea Dog, Beckstrom, 4, 1 36' 10"
Michigan, Frank Karas, Jr., 5, 1 46'
Dolphine, Fish, capsized.
Eskimo, out.

WENDELL LUND ON TOUR AGAIN

Will Confer on Grazing Control Problem in Southwest

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Another trip to the Far West will be made by Dr. Wendell L. Lund, alumnus and former executive secretary of Augustana College and a native of Escanaba, Mich.

In company with a group from the Department of the Interior, Dr. Lund left Washington Sunday afternoon for Albuquerque, where the first of a second series of conferences will be held preliminary to setting up districts for grazing control under the Taylor act.

Acting as administrative assistant and secretary of the group, Dr. Lund will attend preliminary sessions after leaving New Mexico at Prescott, Ariz., Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif., Reno, Nev., and Klamath Falls, Ore. The party may also go to Elko, Nev., and Spokane, Wash.

The conferences will be held to bring together stockmen in order to outline plans for controlling grazing under the Taylor law by setting up grazing districts under administration of the Secretary of the Interior.

Dr. Lund will act as aide to Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary of the Interior, who is in charge of the party.

The party will return to Washington during the first week in October.

During July and August the party made a swing through the Rocky Mountain states. After returning from his first trip two weeks ago, Dr. Lund spent several days visiting the upper Monongahela river valley in West Virginia, where the federal government contemplates the establishment of "organized rural communities."

Wilson Resident, Edward LaCross, Taken By Death

Edward LaCross, 69, a resident of Wilson for the past 46 years, passed away Sunday morning at 3:10 o'clock at a local hospital. He had been ill for five months, suffering from complications.

Mr. LaCrosse was born March 15, 1865 in Hemisen, Canada, and came to this country when a young man, settling in Wilson where he engaged in farming, and making his home there until his death.

Surviving are his wife, one son, William of Whitney, and four daughters, Mrs. Alex Jackomino, Norway; Mrs. Myrtle Boyd, Norway; Mrs. Leo Raiche, Wilson; Mrs. Louis Zimmerman, Canard, Mich.; a sister, Florence, of Louisan, Maine, and two sisters who live in Quebec; also twenty-one grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and was removed to the family home Monday. Services are being held this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock at the home and at 2 o'clock at Zion Episcopal church, Wilson, Archdeacon William Poyseor of Crystal Falls and Rev. Ward of Iron Mountain officiating. The services are according to central standard time.

Burial will be in Wilson cemetery in the family lot.

FILES PETITION FOR GRAND JURY

Miller Seeks Inquiry of Garden Finances for Years 1925-31

Prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller announced yesterday that he had filed a petition with A. T. Sohlberg, justice of the peace at Gladstone, for a one man grand jury investigation of the financial affairs of Garden township during the years Henry Gauthier and Eva Gauthier served as treasurers of the township. This period extended from April, 1925 to April, 1931 when Ossie Hazen assumed the treasurer's position.

The petition for the investigation, Attorney Miller indicated, is an outgrowth of the audit report submitted by the Lawrence Scudder Company, state auditors, which revealed a discrepancy of $10,554 in the township's finances as compared with the audited books.

In explaining the fact that the petition for the grand jury investigation was filed with Justice Sohlberg instead of Circuit Judge Frank Bell, Attorney Miller asserted that while Circuit Judge Bell was willing to conduct the investigation if the county prosecutor desired, his connection with the jury investigation would necessitate the securing of another circuit judge to sit on the bench in the event that the case was presented at circuit court.

It was indicated that the investigation before Justice Sohlberg will begin as soon as witnesses can be subpoenaed.

Iverson Bound Over On Forgery Charge

Following a hearing before Justice H. E. Ranguette, Iver Iverson, 31, of Newhall, was bound over to circuit court Tuesday on a charge of forgery. He is alleged to have secured $200 in cash from a local bank by using his father's pass-book and a forged authorization for the withdrawal.

Iverson was arrested in Detroit, and brought back to Escanaba by Sheriff William E. Miron and Deputy Harold Johnston. Bonds for the circuit court appearance were fixed at $1,000.

Musicians From Escanaba Prove Popular In Radio

Manley Anderson and Arol Beck, of this city, well known young musicians, both students at the Chicago Conservatory of Music who with a classmate at the conservatory, have been playing entertainment programs at Waunita Springs, Gunnison county, Colorado, during the summer vacation, left the resort on Sunday to fill a number of radio engagements on their return home.

The young men who have formed a musical trio, piano accordian, which Manley Anderson plays, string-bass, and piano, Arol Beck, and violin, which is played by the Chicago member of the group, will appear first in Dallas, Tex., and are then playing over stations KFXR and WKY, Oklahoma City, Okla., Kansas City, Kan., and Tulsa, Kla., and are filling several dance engagements on their return trip.

They plan to be in Escanaba about September 12.

"OF HUMAN BONDAGE"

The novel which unpretentiously emanated from a small cottage in England to impress a war-imbued world and garner classic fame and popularity through the years, finally comes to the motion picture screen.

"Of Human Bondage" has been cinematized by RKO-Radio Pictures, with Leslie Howard starred in the leading role of W. Somerset Maugham's story.

"Of Human Bondage" powerfully depicts the poignant drama of a physically handicapped youth whose disability earns him romantic tragedy. Crippled, sensitive, cultured, the hero of Maugham's novel, solicitous for love and understanding, thrusts himself impetuously on his first romantic adventure. He becomes infatuated with a tawdry, promiscuous girl. For escape, he turns to a compassionate, intellectual woman, but fails to reciprocate her love. Then a poor but well-bred woman offers him complete happiness.

The strange attachment to his first love persists, and he takes her back after her many recurrent departures with other men. Only her death affords him full freedom from the strange spell and the real enjoyment of life.

The dramatic action of "Of Human Bondage" passes against the colorful backgrounds of picturesque towns in France and England. Among the varied interesting settings are students' quarters, medical study rooms, typical London gardens and the Parisian art sector.

"Of Human Bondage" features a brilliant cast to support the high histrionic qualities of Leslie Howard. In prominent roles are Bette Davis, Frances Dee and Kay Johnson. Parts of lesser importance are undertaken by such fine players as Reginald Denny, Reginald Owen, Desmond Roberts, Alan Hale and Reginald Sheffield. John Cromwell directed from Lester Cohen's adaptation of Maughan's story.

Escanaba Candidate Has Not Quit Campaign, Says Sullivan

Peter L. Sullivan, upper peninsula campaign manager for Auditor General John K. Stack in his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, takes exception to a statement to an Associated Press story, which gives the impression that the Escanaba man has quit campaigning.

Mr. Sullivan explained that Stack has been speaking daily at gatherings and over the radio in Lower Michigan and will continue this program until the primary election.

Stack's speaking schedule for the remainder of the period follows:

Sept. 5—WIBM, Jackson.

Sept. 6—WBCM, Bay City, Saginaw in afternoon.

Sept. 7—WMBC, Detroit, Flint, Port Huron, Mt. Clemens.

Sept. 8—WJBK, Detroit.

Sept. 9—Various Detroit meetings.

Sept. 10—WJR, Detroit, and various Detroit meetings.

The radio talks are all scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

GOOD FEELING EXISTS

IT IS a mighty fine thing for Escanaba and its people that the Knights of Columbus and Masons of this city can join wholeheartedly in a cooperative effort to provide the nucleus for a community charity fund, such as epitomized in a Welfare Dancing party, to be staged by these two organizations on Thursday evening of this week.

The uniting of these two organizations would not be worthy of comment were it not for the fact that it would be regarded as unusual in many communities. In Escanaba, where our people long ago learned the secret of living happily together, it is not unusual, but it is indicative of the genuine spirit of cooperation that exists among all of Escanaba's people.

The service or disservice rendered political campaigns by the injection of violent personal issues, has long been a matter of serious argument among campaign managers, but it will be generally agreed that mere political victory is not worth the penalty of broken friendships.

Too often political speakers, in the enthusiasm of the moment, say things which may be perfectly true, but which might be better left unsaid, for no political victory is worth even one broken personal friendship.

The margin of difference between deserved party criticism, where individuals must carry the blame for wrong party policies, and purely personal issues, is a very narrow one and it is in this differentiation that campaign managers and speakers should decide first what should be said and what should not be said, to the end that all of us may go on living together when this campaign is ended.

PROTECT CHILDREN

WITH the reopening of school, motorists are warned to be careful in driving on city streets and rural highways, particularly in school zones, because of the presence of children.

The Escanaba police department is launching its annual safety campaign at an appropriate time. Forty-four states of the Union and the District of Columbia have joined in the movement to make September a model month in traffic safety regulation.

The population of the 44 states concerned in the program is 94 per cent of that of the entire country. In these states are registered 95 per cent of the country's automobiles and in them last year occurred 29,000 deaths from automobiles, nearly 95 per cent of the total for the nation.

Repeal of the prohibition law has been accompanied by an increase in the number of traffic accidents, according to statistics of the National Safety Council. This claim is confirmed also by Oscar G. Olander state commissioner of public safety, who recently stated that reckless driving is more prevalent now.

It is obvious that law enforcement authorities will have to supplement their traffic safety education work with a vigorous drive on drunken drivers. Motorists who drive about in their cars with more drinks under their belts than they can properly handle are a menace to life and property. They should be severely dealt with, and public opinion should back up the police and the courts to the fullest extent.

DOUGLAS RESIGNS

THE resignation of Lewis Douglas as director of the budget removes another of the conservative element from President Roosevelt's official family.

It was rumored around the capital for sometime that Douglas would be tendering his resignation because he felt he could not go along with President Roosevelt on his program of lavish spending. President Roosevelt appointed the former Arizona representative as his budget chief to carry out his campaign promise to effect a reduction in federal expenditures approximating 25 per cent.

Douglas' recommendations were embodied in the economy bill passed by Congress, but the savings were to a considerable extent wiped off later by a restoration of veterans' benefits. Later when the administration set up its extraordinary budget for vast expenditures of money for public works, the civilian conservation corps and other relief activities, the director of the budget deemed his position was untenable and offered his resignation to the president.

The resignation of Douglas, coming on the heels of the departure of Prof. Sprague, Dudley Cates and other officials who held high places in the Roosevelt official circle, indicates that these men, considered experts in their respective fields, cannot conscientiously follow the Democratic administration in its dangerous experimentation with government. Such happenings again raise the question as to where the "New Deal" is taking us.

IT WAS A START

EXTREMELY unfavorable weather marred the staging of the first annual sailing boat regatta on Bay de Noc last Sunday, but those who devoted their time and efforts in making arrangements for the event should not be discouraged.

The few hundred persons who witnessed the races showed keen interest in the introduction of this new sport on an organized basis. From this modest start it should be possible to gradually develop these boat races to the importance such events have attained in the recreational life of Ephriam, Sturgeon Bay and other lake front communities.

Before boating can develop to any appreciable degree, however, some accommodations must be provided. For several years there has been much talk of the need of constructing a dock here, but no progress toward the realization of this end has been made.

One of the hindrances, it seems, is that such talk has centered on a large structure, costing upwards of a hundred thousand dollars, to provide dockage for passenger steamers and freight carriers. Funds for such an ambitious project are difficult to obtain, but it appears that some headway could be made if agitation were begun to provide a small dock for pleasure craft. A basin for motor and sail boats should not entail a very heavy expenditure, but it would provide facilities that would be greatly appreciated by boating enthusiasts.

DIVERSION GOES ON

FOR years, the sight of the State's collections of gasoline and weight tax revenues, has presented a shining mark to every interest in the State which wanted money. Scores of ideas have been incubated around the idea of diverting highway revenues from highway purposes, and using them for something else.

For years legislatures have turned down such proposals. In the most plain spoken, protests against the action in principle have been expressed by the dissenting majority of legislators. They opposed collection of money from you as an automobile user to that it might be devoted to, for instance, educational needs.

Now, however, come the proposal which establishes a more subtle sort of diversion of highway revenues than has ever before been contemplated. We are asked to approve a reduction of the State gasoline tax from 3 cents to 2 cents and to accept, moreover, annually less the tax High way Department [illegible] who will get the money and [illegible] except that the State will Once diversion was at least arithmetically possible without any effect save that of stopping the road building program. Today however we have a different situation. The gas tax will yield about $20,000,000 in 1935. The legal and fixed obligations of the State Highway Department will total some $15,000,000, the State's only fund for matching and constructing with State and [illegible]. Now try to subtract $7,000,000 from $1,000,000 and see what your answer is. The answer is that some of the fixed obligations will merely be placed on your house and barn in the form of an added real estate tax.

Still no diversion you say, but merely subtraction? No one has yet had the temerity to state that once the gas tax is dropped, the price at the pump will never rise the necessary cent to cancel the car owner's doubtful gain. The day gas jumps a cent, you have by the Constitution, diverted $7,000,000 annually to the oil companies of the State.

Beach Club Girl

CHAPTER XXII

It was too late now for Boots to pretend she hadn't seen Isabel. The other girl's warm, welcoming hand was in hers. Her bright eyes were full of friendly interest. It was as if the months between their last meeting did not exist.

"Why, Boots dear," Isabel said again and again. "But how terribly nice! And I had been thinking of you! But I didn't know you were in New York. I hadn't the least idea. . . ."

"We were to have gone to Florida before this," Boots offered vaguely, walking along beside her, "but we're still out on Long Island." "Out on Long Island" sounded rather better, on the whole, than "Astoria." Isabel was polite; Isabel did not ask where on Long Island the young Lunds were living. Boots blessed her for the omission.

"Will you have lunch with me?" Isabel bubbled. "Here I was, hating to eat alone—you know me of old!—and practically starving to death and all that. . . ."

"I was just about to stop for luncheon myself," Boots said brightly. "But I forgot about it, shopping."

It was a lie. Of course it was a lie. But she couldn't tell Isabel the truth; couldn't say she had been looking for a job in Lacy's.

"This old suit," she said with a rippling laugh she hoped fervently was convincing, "is positively moldy. I had to get something to wear . . . and things for the south, too, although they're not showing much in that line yet. Too early."

Isabel nodded sympathetically. She had her arm linked in that of her friend. They were opposite one of those big, plate-glassed tearooms so dear to feminine hearts. Isabel, guiding her, wheeled expertly through the shopping throngs, steered her through the revolving doors. Boots protested faintly.

"Please take time for just a bite. Please!" Isabel begged prettily. Boots, thinking of the lone quarter in her flat change purse, shuddered inwardly. But the next words reassured her.

"It's my birthday. I want to splurge a bit. Daddy gave me $20," said Isabel, answering the black-frocked hostess' nod and following her to a table for two. "Let's have the creamed chicken and the double chocolate ice cream cake. 'Member how we used to love it?"

So it was Isabel's party after all. Over their heaped plates the two girls reviewed, explained, murmured.

"You haven't seen your mother?" at last Isabel asked with gravity.

Boots shook her head. In spite of her manful efforts her eyes swam in a mist. Her voice thickened. "I haven't really dared," she said. "Daddy's so mad at me. I wrote her twice. She didn't answer."

"She doesn't care," Isabel told her, her own eyes watering in impulsive sympathy. "I do think your father is being mean about it. Why, people elope all the time. There's nothing terrible about it. He's behaving like a stone age father . . ."

"I don't blame him," Boots said thickly, painfully, glancing down at her slim linked hands. "It was a shock. If I had it to do over again . . ."

"You'd tell them all about it, I know," supplied Isabel, trying to restore a more cheerful atmosphere. "But you know what I'd do if I were in your place? I'd go up there some day, see my mother and fix everything up. Just don't pay any attention to him," advised Isabel gayly. "And once your mother sees you—why, she misses you frightfully, you can imagine—everything will be all right."

"I could kill myself when I think of hurting her that way," Boots said youthfully.

Isabel patted her hand. "You take the train up there some morning when your father is safely out of the house," she said. "Everything will be simply fine. See if it isn't."

Boots, thinking of her empty purse, of the fare to Larchneck, nodded dimly. She couldn't tell Isabel about that, though. There were some things you simply kept to yourself.

They clung to each other on parting. Isabel in a girlish jumble of warnings and whispered affection, Boots as a drowning man who sees his proverbial last straw fast disappearing.

"We must see each other soon again," was the burden of Isabel's song. Boots, agreeing, still felt the barrier between them. The old foothold could not be regained, however strong the bond was. Her new life was too confused and too uncertain for plans. At length she promised to telephone, to write. Her own address she did not give. They were moving any day now, she said.

It was difficult after all this to go back to the shabby flat. Somehow it had never seemed so sordid, so definitely run-down-at-the-heel, before. Gloria was at home, spreading pattern papers and a gaudy purple and red silk remnant of printed silk all over the living room floor.

"Russ called," Gloria looked up to say abstractedly. "He said to tell you he thought he had something lined up and he wouldn't be home for supper."

Boots sat down in the tufted plush chair, the springs of which were already sagging. The collector had not received the full amount for this chair up to date. She took off her hat and ran her fingers nervously through her hair. If Russ weren't home until late it meant an entire evening in Gloria's company. The prospect, especially after Isabel's amusing chatter, was well nigh unbearable. Russ made this life tolerable for her. Without him there was simply nothing.

She hung up her things neatly and began to mend her other pair of stockings. If there were only some books about, she thought wildly, finishing that task. If there were a piano. . . . But only the snipping sounds of her sister-in-law's scissors met her ears. No wonder people in these little boxes of flats sought the movies as a means of escape. There was nothing else to do, nothing else to look forward to.

"Shall I fix things for dinner?" Gloria shrugged. "Well, I got some sausage and there's a can of corn."

Somehow Boots got through the rest of the afternoon; the early fall evening closed in. Lights winked on in all the square windows. Children huddled around a bonfire in a vacant lot at the end of the block. The prospect was dull and uninteresting, but Boots from her perch envied the small struggling figures milling about the scarlet flare, tasting the good smell of wood smoke and burning fingers in their attempts to take toasted marshmallows from the end of the stick.

Up in Larchneck, at this time of year, leaves were heaped in great piles for burning. Her mother, in her old gray sweater and a well-worn tweed skirt, would be raking, too, in the lower garden, setting a match to the neat piles. Boots felt a lump in her throat at the thought. Isabel's words had tugged at her heartstrings. Her mother did miss

THE MAN WHO YELLED FIRE

A man in our town was robbing a store.
When in walked the boss through the one open door.
A gun in his hand. It seemed that if ever
A fellow were caught but this fellow was clever.
He lifted his voice and began yelling "Fire!"
And in rushed the public, the cause to inquire.
And up came the chief, with his engines behind him.
But the man who yelled "Fire!" well, they never did find him.

The trick's nothing new; it's been done more than once.
It is one of our leading political stunts
If people the size of their taxes should mention.
Then do something quick to distract their attention
When taxes go high, and then taxes go higher,
Then all you need do is to just holler "Fire!"
Just pump up the old oratorical bellows
And jump on the public utility fellows.

William Finnegan, one of the prominent engineers employed by the North Western road, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday morning when a big Model Z engine toppled over while entering a siding at Stephenson. As the locomotive started to topple over Mr. Finnegan leaped from the cab window to the ground. As he fell his knee hit the track of the main line and he was seriously bruised. William Stark, the fireman, also jumped and escaped without injury.

RALLIES BOOKED BY REPUBLICANS

Escanaba Township Hall Will Have Frolic This Evening

Officers of the Republican county committee, who have directed an unprecedently active pre-primary campaign in behalf of their party in this county, have arranged for a series of meetings that will take party speakers into widely separated townships before the close of this week.

Preparations that have been underway for several weeks will culminate in a big Republican frolic, at the Escanaba township hall, at 8:15 o'clock tonight, when well known speakers of the county will address the voters of that section. Following the political meeting, a "Good Time" party will be staged for the benefit of the Holy Family church, of Flat Rock, with music provided for the occasion by a seven piece orchestra. Also tonight Republican speakers will address a meeting of the voters of Fairbanks township.

On Thursday evening a meeting for the voters of Bay de Noc and Ensign townships will be held at the Bay de Noc Grange hall. For Friday evening a meeting has been planned for Brampton township at the town hall at Kipling.

Other meetings that are being planned for this week will include Garden ,Ford River, Cornell and closing the campaign with meetings at Gladstone and Rapid River.

Marriage License Record Is Broken For Delta County

Records at the office of county clerk R. H. Labre show another marked increase in the number of marriage licenses issued at Escanaba. During the month of August, a total of 47 licenses were issued, making the past month the biggest one on record for the wedding business.

Even June, usually one of the leading wedding months of the year, was pushed back into second place, for in June the county clerk's office gave out 41 licenses. This was an increase over the previous year, however, which saw 37 marriage licenses issued in June.

MEETING HELD BY DEMOCRATS

Luce County Hears Talks Boosting Candidates At Primaries

Newberry, Mich.—A group of Delta county Democrats came to Luce county Sunday afternoon in the interests of their party in general and of the candidacy of John Luecke who is running for state senator. V. F. Gormely, vice chairman of the state liquor commission presided. Mr. Luecke was the first speaker, presenting himself on the merits of a "plain man" who has a keen understanding of the workers problems through his daily contacts and interests. Mr. Luecke stated that he had the New Deal at heart and that President Roosevelt would bring the country out of the depression. He contrasted the Hoover program of "helping the men at the top" to the Roosevelt concern over the "man at the bottom, the foundation of the American nation." Although "industry must also be considered" the speaker does not believe that enough attention is paid to industry in the state of Michigan. He pledged himself to work for the interests of industry as well as of labor.

Miller Speaks

Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Miller of Escanaba, who listed himself as the only Democratic prosecuting attorney in the U. P. lashed out at the Republican rule and especially the statements made by Republican campaigners as reported in the Press. He doubts very much if a report carried to the effect that "3400 attended Republican rallies" was correct as reported last week and said that he had checked the attendance with several Republican as well as Democratic sources and believed that less than 600 attended, "that there was less than 100 at each meeting." Mr. Miller does not believe that the Republicans are selling themselves to the voters. He mentioned John O'Hara who in a speech stated that he would stand by President Roosevelt "Providing the president was right," and suggested that John O'Hara would make that decision. In a Press dispatch reporting Doyle speaking at Stephenson, Doyle is reported to have said "now is the time for the Republican party to do something really constructive to bring the country out of the plight in which it finds itself." Mr. Miller stated "Doyle has never presented a constructive idea. He has always been obstructive and destructive." Prosecutor Miller strongly defended Governor Comstock in his administrative program for the state, stated that the troubles of the state were brought on by the opposition party and that the "Republicans have not had a change of heart." "They criticize the pardon and parole system and now they are asking the people of the state of Michigan to pardon them for the mistakes of a dozen years and return them to office."

Coon Speaks

Marvin L. Coon made a strong appeal for the support of the national administration and for Governor Comstock. "Comstock took in more votes than did Roosevelt at the last election. The Michigan governor did not ride in on Roosevelt's coat tails but led the way for the victory of his party at the election and has "given the state the highest type of leadership it has known for 20 years," this speaker stated. Mr. Coon reported a meeting and conversation he had with Speaker Rainey at Mackinaw Island about two months ago in which the statesman told of the changed political life which followed the national "revolt of ballots rather than a revolt of bullets." Mr. Coon recommended Mr. Luecke to the audience, stating that the state legislature needed more laboring men at Lansing.

Big Democratic Ballot

Mr. Gormely expects that the state Democratic ticket will pile up a big vote in the coming primary. In the Democratic landslide Governor Comstock polled 40,000 more votes than did Franklin D. Roosevelt and will surprise his opponents next week, this speaker stated. He whacked those Republican senators and legislators who "threw monkey wrenches into the legislative machinery" at Lansing appearing to believe that they had elected Roosevelt and Comstock. The Republicans are not so happy over their prospects for the primary, Mr. Gormely believes, and in some counties had trouble finding candidates to fill their tickets.

A Luecke for Senator Club is to be formed at once, Joseph Villemure being selected to act as chairman and an organization meeting to be held in a few days. About 40 persons attended the meeting on Sunday.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEET

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held on Thursday evening in the Legion rooms. A lunch will be served and all members are urged to attend. The meeting will open at eight o'clock.

BEAUDIN ARRESTED

Dave Beaudin aged about 46 was arrested at an early hour on Monday morning by the city police, sheriff's department, state police and a liquor store inspector, following a "biy" made by a special operator. The officers found six gallons of alcohol and a quart of moonshine whisky in his residence. Beaudin pleaded guilty to sale and possession of illegal liquor when arraigned in the court of Justice Fred Becks on Monday forenoon and was bound over to circuit court for trial.

In the clean-up which was carried on through Saturday night and Sunday officers report that the locality of Newberry is remarkably free from bootleggers, the Beaudin place being the only location found where liquor or moonshine could be purchased.

Four Others Held

State police and Sheriff Turnbull's department also picked up three other men for driving drunk and on drunk and disorderly charges. Forest Walker of Strongs came to town on Saturday to get a car license. Officers saw his car weaving along the highway and he and his two companions were picked up and spent Saturday night and Sunday in jail. All four pleaded guilty before Justice Becks. Forest Walker paid a fine of $50 plus $6.25 costs, and Kenneth Walker and Joe Brown each paid costs of $6.25 for being drunk and disorderly.

Milwaukee Road Business Good, Says Executive

The Milwaukee Road has been enjoying a general improvement in business excepting, of course, in those areas seriously hit by the drouth, Owen Cull, Chicago, general freight and passenger agent of the railway, said yesterday while on a visit here.

The railway's passenger business since the establishment of the reduced fare has been exceedingly good, Mr. Cull reported. Traffic in and out of Chicago has been exceptional on account of the world's fair.

The iron ore movement has not been up to early season expectations, but an increase in traffic is expected during the closing weeks, Mr. Cull reported.

The drouth and insects did severe damage to the corn crop. The Dakotas are in bad shape because of a poor grain crop. Iowa farmers, however, are reported to have a lot of money rolling in as a result of AAA benefits and increased prices for corn and hogs. Minnesota's agriculture is in fairly good condition because of its diversification.

The drouth wiped out the crops of some of the richest farming states but the national farm income this year will total considerably more than last, according to statistics. The reason for that is the sharp rise in the value of what crops remain. Corn will bring double last year's prices—livestock, poultry and dairy products, which constitute the bulk of the farm income, will bring in $700,000,000 more than they did in 1933.

Governor Comstock Will Speak Friday

On Friday evening, Sept. 7, at 9:30, Gov. William A. Comstock will address the people of Michigan over one of the most extensive radio hook-ups ever established in this state.

Rumors concerning this address have been heard for several weeks, but the governor has remained silent and only during the past few days have arrangements been made to include the state-wide radio system. Other rumors too have been manifested. On this too the governor has given no hint, but many believe he is priming his heavy artillery for the purpose of aiming a devastating broadside at his personal critics and the critics of the administration.

BOND SITUATION IS MADE CLEAR

Escanaba Will Lose If Proposal Is Rejected, Rotarians Told

Members of the Escanaba Rotary club were plainly told yesterday that unless the proposed county bond issue for $100,000 is endorsed by the people of this county, at the election next Tuesday, welfare labor from Escanaba will be used during the coming winter months on projects outside of Escanaba and this city will receive no benefits from the proposed labor program.

On the other hand it was pointed out that if the band issue is endorsed funds will be provided for the purchase of materials used in several projects that will prove of decided future benefit to the people of this municipality.

City's Share $47,000

The warning that welfare labor cannot be used in Escanaba unless funds are provided for the purchase of materials for local project was brought to the Rotary club from the head of the county welfare department while Major Carl J. Sawyer and City Engineer Arthur Aronson lent their whole-hearted endorsement to the list of work projects that are proposed to be carried out by welfare labor and with materials purchased from bonds made available from the proposed bond issue.

It was pointed out to Rotary club members by Mayor Sawyer that if the bonding proposal is endorsed between $47,000 and $48,000 will be available for the purchase of materials for Escanaba projects. If the bonding proposal is not carried at next week's election the only remaining recourse for financing the purchase of materials for Escanaba projects would be to refund city bonds now coming due and use funds set aside for that purpose for the purchase of the needed materials. Mayor Sawyer admitted, however, that the possibility of following such a course has not yet been investigated.

Good Business Move

Mayor Sawyer expressed it to be his sincere belief that it would be good business for the taxpayers of Escanaba to join with the taxpayers of the county at large, in endorsing the bond issue upon the theory that jobs must be provided for unemployed men during the coming winter season and unless funds are provided with which to purchase materials, welfare aid in this city will either be confined to a direct dole, or the employment of welfare workers on projects, outside the city, where no material costs will be involved. He pointed out that Delta county is entirely free of bonded debt and funds made available by the proposed issue will make possible the carrying out of worth-while projects in every section of the county, with the federal government furnishing all of the labor, making the ultimate cost much lower than at any other time.

City Engineer Aronson explained each of the projects proposed for the city of Escanaba in detail. He told of the desirability of repainting and redecorating the city hall building, the necessity for rearrangement of office rooms on the second floor of the building as well as the necessity for providing additional office space in the city hall basement. He explained projects that will extend water and gas service to sections of the city not now served by those services and the proposed revamping of the city's storm water drainage system, which when completed will prevent the flooding of certain sections of the city, including Ludington street, during the spring breakup and following heavy summer rainstorms.

Willow Creek Home Destroyed by Fire; Family Loses All

Aroused by the barking of their dog, members of the E. Curtis family escaped from a fire which completely destroyed their home on the Willow Creek road early Tuesday, but they lost everything in the blaze, which had gained much headway before it was discovered. The children sleeping upstairs were taken out on a ladder through a window, and members of the family then drove down to the fire station to give the alarm. The house was practically razed when the firemen arrived, but they were able to save a shed which had started to burn from embers carried by the strong north windw.

The exact cause of the blaze could not be determined, but firemen said there were indications it had started from the chimney. Only a few articles of clothing were saved.

Church Wedding Here Monday of Wide Interest

Impressiveness of church ritual and beauty of appointment were combined in the wedding ceremony of Monday morning which united in marriage Catherine Aileen Connelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Connelly, 625 South Ninth street, and Willard L. LaViolette, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. LaViolette, 1109 Third avenue south.

The marriage service at which Rev. Fr. Mathias LaViolette, of Negaunee, brother of the bridegroom, officiated, took place at a solemn high mass at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church. Rev. Fr. LaViolette was celebrant; Rev. Fr. T. Parnell Dunleavy, deacon; Rev. John Hughes, of Kenrick Seminary, subdeacon, and Rev. Fr. Albert Pellisier, of L'Anse, master of ceremonies. In the sanctuary were Rev. Fr. Thomas Kennedy, Rev. Fr. Raymond Bergeron of Engadine, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques.

The special blessing of Pope Pius XI, a particular honor, was conferred on the bridal couple by Father LaViolette, who obtained the privilege through the kindness of Rev. Dr. J. L. Zyrd.

The church was appropriately decorated for the ceremony. Tall standard baskets of gladioli were at either side of the entrance to the sanctuary and smaller baskets of the same flowers adorned the chancel railing, while graceful vase bouquets were arranged with the lighted altar candles.

March Nuptial, by Rene Becker, was played by Mrs. William Ramspeck, organist, with violin obligato by Miss Clara Karas, as the processional, and the music of the mass was sung by St. Patrick's choir, with solos by Miss Genevieve Sedlock, Miss Marjoree Nee, William Ramspeck, Jr., and Mrs. John Kress, who sang Rosewig's "Ave Marie" at the offertory. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the recessional.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, preceded by her attendants, Miss Lucille LaViolette, sister of the bridegroom, who was her maid of honor, Miss Margaret Wade, and Miss Marjorie Koppes, a cousin of the bride, who were bridesmaids, and little Aileen Gaffney, the J. J. Gaffney's daughter, also a cousin, who was the flower girl. As the bride and her attendants neared the altar, the bridegroom and his best man, Francis Boyce, entered from the sacristy, and with Father Mathias, awaited her. Robert Finley, a close friend of the couple, and Frederick Fillion, the bridegroom's cousins, were ushers.

The bride was a lovely picture in her gown of white Beaumar canton crepe, fashioned with close fitting bodice and floor length skirt, which extended in the back to form a fan train. The skirt was trimmed with dainty tulle ruffles in double rows and the ruffles also formed the border trim for the shoulder cape which completed the gown. Her turban was fashioned of tulle with tulle bands on which were set seed pearls, and from the turban extended a finger tip veil of tulle with slight ruffling on the border. Her sandal slippers were of white silk and she wore elbow length white gloves. Instead of flowers the bride carried a prayer book, beautifully bound in white kid, with a gardenia marker, the gift of Dorothy and Helen Anderson, close friends.

Gowns of Velvet

Her maid of honor wore a gown of cocktail blue velvet, floor length, with a high neckline, and puffed sleeves featuring the bodice, and the skirt, floor length, extending in a short train. Her brimmed hat was of the same shade of velvet and her slippers and gloves of blue. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and snapdragons.

Miss Wade wore a gown of French claret velvet, with slippers and gloves of the same shade and a brimmed velvet hat. Her gown was fashioned with square necklined bodice, puffed sleeves and a floor length skirt, the only trimming of the gown, clips at the neckline. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and bronze snapdragons tied with bronze ribbons. Miss Koppes was gowned in Malacca brown, the model made with a jacket bodice with back peplum and floor length skirt, and her slippers, gloves and velvet hat were of the same shade. She carried yellow roses and snapdragons.

The little flower girl wore a charming frock of shell pink taffeta, floor length, trimmed with a blue velvet sash from which extended blue and pink velvet streamers, and her slippers, lace mitts and hair bow were of blue. She carried a Colonial bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Connelly, mother of the bride, wore a becoming ensemble of brown crepe with white trim, and brown accessories, and she wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses and bronze snapdragons. Mrs. LaViolette also wore a brown ensemble with matching accessories, and a shoulder corsage of roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Delta hotel to members of the bridal party and the immediate members of the two families. The table was beautifully appointed with a low silver bowl of asters, at either side of which were white tapers, forming the centerpiece, while the bride's cake and the bridegroom's cake were at either end of the table.

The young people left later in the day on a motor trip through the east. They will be at home after Sept. 20 at 1414 First avenue south. The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble of dusk blue tweed with accessories of the same shade and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba high school and of the Spenserian college, Cleveland, Ohio, and has been engaged in secretarial work in the office of the Escanaba senior high school. Mr. LaViolette is a graduate of St. Joseph's high school and is a bookkeeper at the Escanaba National Bank.

Guests from away at the ceremony were Miss Esther Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Swanson, and Mrs. E. M. Nelson, of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Cull, Chicago; Miss Gertrude Elsie Holmes, Cleveland; Miss Beatrice Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Villemure, Iron Mountain.

Simple Frock Is Smart For School Wear

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9109

While a school girl may be as smart as can be, there is only a certain kind of smart permitted her and this is it. Her clothes must be first of all simple, then trim and comfortable and young. From the little round yoke bertoning over in the front to the inverted pleats fanning out at the bottom, every detail of this dress is youthful and attractive. Many materials would be suitable for it—angora wool jersey, challis or even cotton if your particular daughter wears cotton in cool weather. It's an easy-to-make little affair.

Pattern 9109 may be ordered only in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 requires 2 5-8 yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

A beautiful, complete collection of Summer Clothes is shown in the NEW SUMMER EDITION of the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK. This book will help you plan a stunning vacation wardrobe. Adele Verville And Joseph Pepin Wed On Saturday

At a ceremony which took place Saturday morning, Sept. 1, at Hancock, Miss Adele Verville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Verville of Hancock, became the bride of Albert Joseph Pepin of Harvey, Ill., son of Mrs. A. J. Pepin of this city.

The ceremony at which Rev. Fr. James Corcoran officiated, was performed at a nuptial high mass at St. Patrick's church at 8 o'clock.

Miss Kathryn Bree, organist, and Archie J. Verville, Jr., violinist, played the processional and the recessional, and vocal solos were sung by Cora and Francis Verville during the service. Special numbers included the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," "Because," by d'Hardelot, and "Panis Angelicus," by Caesar Franck.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Winifred Verville, her sister, who was her maid of honor. Thomas Rentenbach of Duluth, was best man and ushers were John T. Pepin and Philip and Bernard Verville.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white lace and with it the veil which her mother had worn at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of tea roses. Her maid of honor wore a gown of powder blue with brown accessories and she carried a bouquet of tea roses.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the Ouigaming club.

Following a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Pepin will be at home at 16732 Wood street, Hazelcrest, Ill.

The bride has been a teacher in the public schools of Hancock and has been very active in the musical and social life of the community. Mr. Pepin is a graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and of the University of Michigan and is now connected with the Wyman, Gordon Co., Ingells, Shepard Division, of Harvey, Ill.

Guests at the ceremony included Mrs. Pepin, daughters, Marie and Cecelia, and son, John, of this city.

Kousbaugh-Lund

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kousbaugh of Nahma announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Eddy E. Lund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hartvig Lund of Hillsboro, N. D., which took place Saturday afternoon, Sept. 1, at Elgin, Ill.

The ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock in the parsonage of the Congregational church by Rev. Alexander Milmine.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schlaefli of Elgin, Mrs. Schlaefli, a sister of the bride.

The bride wore a suit of green satin with cream trim, and brown accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Schlaefli wore a suit of light blue with brown accessories, and a corsage of tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lund left on a honeymoon trip during which they will visit in northern Michigan, Minnesota and in North Dakota. For traveling the bride is wearing a tan boucle suit with matching accessories. They will be at home after Sept. 21 at 660 East Chicago street, Elgin.

The bride is a graduate registered nurse, completing her training at St. Joseph's hospital with the class of 1930. Mr. Lund received his degree in civil engineering from the North Dakota State college, Fargo, in 1928, and is employed as an engineer in the Illinois state highway department in Elgin.

Miss Halligan Of Flint Bride Of Dr. LeMire

Simplicity and charm of detail marked the wedding Monday at which Miss Margaret Halligan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Halligan, of 425 Stephens street, Flint, became the bride of Dr. William A. LeMire, of this city, son of Mrs. William A. LeMire of Escanaba and Chicago.

The ceremony took place at the early morning mass at 7 o'clock at St. Matthew's church, Flint, Rev. Fr. Daniel Driscoll, conducting the marriage service. Tall vases of white asters and pink gladioli with a myriad of white candles burning on the altars formed the attractive setting for the ceremony.

Organ selections were played during the mass, following the processional, and an organ solo recessional was played at the close of the service.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Kathryn Ann Halligan, who was her maid of honor. Dr. Donald Boyce of Chicago was best man, and Gordon Aley of Escanaba and George M. Algoe of Flint were ushers.

The bride wore a smart fall frock of brown wool crepe. Fashioned on simple lines it was distinguished by an upstanding calyx collar and a bow of brown cire satin ribbon on the bodice. With it she wore one of the new felt berets in a shade matching her frock. She carried a small and formal bouquet of Johanna Hill roses tied with brown maline and satin. Her maid of honor wore a dull green crepe frock with two tailored white grosgrain bows trimming the bodice, and with it a small green hat. She carried a formal bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Halligan, mother of the bride, was attired in a gown of Lohengrin green sheer, with which she wore a brown felt hat and brown accessories, and a shoulder corsage of pansies and yellow roses. Mrs. LeMire was becomingly gowned in black lace with black accessories and her shoulder corsage was of creamy gardenias.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the Dresden hotel. The bride's table was centered with a mound of white roses graced at either end with the bride's and bridegroom's cakes.

Dr. and Mrs. LeMire left later on an eastern motor trip. They will make their home in Escanaba, residing at the LeMire residence, 600 Lake Shore Drive, for the winter months. The bride's traveling outfit was a brown velveteen suit, brightened with a yellow knitted blouse, and with which she wore brown accessories.

The bride was graduated from St. Mary's at Notre Dame, Ind., and is an active member of the Flint Junior League. Dr. LeMire is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Loyla School of Medicine and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. William A. LeMire, Kathryn, Margaret, Robert and Donald LeMire, of this city and Chicago; Miss Lillian MacDonald, and Misses Myrtle and Dorothy LeMire of Chicago.

K. C., Masonic Dance Is Open To Community

The first annual Masonic-Knights of Columbus dance which is being held Thursday evening at Terrace Gardens as a charity benefit, is open to all members of the two organizations and to all friends of members, it was emphasized yesterday, following circulation of reports that attendance was limited to membership in either, and a cordial invitation is extended to them to attend.

The party Thursday, which is informal, will be one of the big affairs of the fall season and it is expected to attract a record attendance.

Proceeds of the dance are for a fund to be devoted to some particular branch of welfare work, and the management of Terrace Gardens has donated the use of the ballroom for the charitable purpose.

An all-star ten-piece orchestra will play the dance program.

A special committee of Knights of Columbus and Masons are in charge with Attorney Harlan Yelland and Attorney Denis McGinn, co-chairmen.

Barbara Kaye, John R. Harder, Wed Saturday

Christ church in Winnetka was the setting for the marriage on Saturday, Sept. 1, of Miss Barbara Kaye, daughter of Mrs. James Philip de Bevers Kaye, of 1427 Judson avenue, and John R. Harder of Evanston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Harder, of Wells.

The ceremony was performed Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Philip, had as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Kaye Wynne of New York, and Mr. Harder served as his son's best man.

Following the ceremony, the bride's aunt, Mrs. Macy Nichalson of the Homestead, gave a reception at the Kaye home.

Mr. Harder and his bride are motoring north for their honeymoon. They will be at home upon their return at 605 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Mr. Harder attended St. Mary's hall at Burlington, N. J., and Mr. Harder is a graduate of the University of Michigan and of Harvard Business school.

Attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harder and Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Perschbacher of Appleton, Wis.

Championship Play This Week

The ladies' club championship tournament of the Escanaba Golf club will be played Thursday and Friday, it was announced yesterday. The nine-hole qualifying round must be played by this evening.

VERILLE GETS FEDERAL POST

Upper Peninsula Native Heads U. S. Airplane Inspection Board

Alfred V. Verville, Dearborn, airplane designer, who is well known in the upper peninsula, has been appointed chief of the manufacturing inspection service of the bureau of air commerce at Washington.

Verville is a native of Hancock and is the husband of the former Bertha Kamrath of Escanaba. He will supervise the examination of engineering plans for new types of airplanes and subsequent licensing for use in air commerce. He succeeds John H. Geisse, who recently became chief of the bureau's new development section.

Actively engaged in commercial and military areonautics for about 20 years he was formerly in Detroit with an airplane company—Verille has given most of his time to designing and building airplanes.

Studied in Europe

Sent to Europe to study pursuit airplanes, Verville returned to this country and in 1918 developed a pursuit plane with a welded steel tube fuselage, a type of construction now widely used. The Verville Packard and Verville Sperry racing airplanes designed by him won the Pulitzer speed tropies in 1930 and 1924. The Verville Sperry racer and the low wing, retractable landing gear was a forerunner of modern types now in universal use. In 1922 he returned to Europe as a member of the army air corps commission.

Political Signs Barred Off Roads

The Delta county road commission has received orders from the state highway department to remove all political signboards off the highway right of ways.

The order covers banners stretched overhead across the highway, signs on trees and posts, located in the right of way. Candidates are reminded that they will be simply wasting their money by posting such signs in prohibited area.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TOTAL IS 2,735

Some Rooms Crowded on Opening Day; Junior High Has 678

Opening day attendance in the Escanaba public schools totalled 2,735, according to figures at the office of Superintendent R. E. Cheney. This is a decrease of 79 compared with the attendance for the first day last year, and is 85 under the total for 1932. Some grade schoolrooms are crowded this year, and adjustments will be necessary. Rain which marked the opening day of school may have accounted for a part of the reduction in attendance, but no marked increase is anticipated for this year.

The following comparative table compiled at the superintendent's office shows where the increases and decreases have occurred in opening day attendance during the last four years:

Dr. Miller Moves Dental Clinic To Hall At Flat Rock

The Delta county dental clinic of the Children's Fund of Michigan was moved Tuesday to a new location at the township hall building in Flat Rock. During the past two weeks the clinic, which is in charge of Dr. H. L. Miller of the Children's Fund staff, has been operated at the Nadon school in Flat Rock.

With the reopening of county schools on Tuesday sufficient space for the clinic was no longer available in the Nadon building. Children from each of the four Flat Rock township schools will be transported to receive dental attention at the township hall. Only children from families unable to pay for dental attention are accepted in the list of children eligible for care at the clinic.

Local school and township welfare authorities have cooperated in making necessary arrangements for operation of the clinic. Services of a full time dental assistant have been supplied by the school board.

Pioneer Association Picnic Is Success

The Alger Pioneer association held its annual picnic at Au Train last Sunday and a large crowd of pioneers, old timers, and their friends and descendants were present to enjoy the day. Threatening weather no doubt kept many away. However, there was no rain at Au Train, providential for the old timers, who thronged the grounds and enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Among those who were present from outside were: Fred Case, cashier of the First National Bank of Sault Ste. Marie and an old time resident of Alger county. He thoroughly enjoyed meeting with old time friends and he received many a hearty handshake and many well wishes from all. Others who came as guests were Attorney Miller, prosecutor of Delta county, who lived at Au Train in 1881, Gerald Cleary, Democrat state committeeman for the eleventh district, Marvin Coon, branch manager state liquor commission, Escanaba, and John Luecke, candidate for state senator for 30th district. Addresses were made by Messrs. Miller, Coon and Luecke, with appropriate introductions by R. H. Wright.

Among the interesting features was an introduction by Mr. Wright of Frank Cameron of Au Train the oldest resident pioneer of Alger county. Mr. Cameron is approaching his 89th birthday and has lived in this locality 85 years. Another interesting feature was the song and dance stunt by Daral Bonneville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bonneville and Betty Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Richards.

At the urging of their friends who carried them on the track and keep up the spirit of fun making Mrs. John B. Revord and Anna Bjork entered the fat ladies race and each received a prize of fifty cents.

In the fat man's race Tommy Beaudry, Bill Emanuelson and Tony Lezotte were entries. Beaudry received first prize and Emanuelson second. Lezotte foundered half way between the goal posts.

Other prizes awarded for races, among children, were William Bovan, Nellie Erickson, Charles Moulds, Frank Carrier and Eva LaFlamm.

county and city of Munising was county and city of Munising was won by the Munising boys. Baseball was played during the afternoon, many of the old timers taking a turn with the younger men.

The picnic ended with a dance in the evening.

MUNISING BRIEFS

M. E. McGary, formerly with the Munising Paper company, and now of Chicago was a visitor in Munising Labor Day.

The Papermakers held a picnic at Bay Furnace Monday afternoon. About a thousand persons attended the picnic and a fine time had by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Williams, of Escanaba, were in Munising Saturday on business and while here visited with friends.

Nels P. Frieberg, of the Michigan state police at Marquette, and formerly stationed here, was a visitor in the city Monday.

John Sharkey returned last Monday evening from Marquette to bring Peggy Sharkey back for school. She has been visiting with the family of Dave DePoy.

A. E. Oswald is back from Milwaukee where he went to get his family who have been visiting relatives there.

Burrows Held Up, His Store Robbed

A holdup at the point of gun and another breaking in were added to the steady growing list of burglaries that have taken place in the city during the past few months.

Just as R. J. Burrows, druggist, was entering his home on West Superior street at about 7:30 Sunday evening an unidentified man who had his features well hidden, poked a gun in the back of his neck and commanded him to turn around and hold up his hands, threatening his life if he uttered a cry or attempted to move. When Mr. Burrows turned around the man went through his pockets and was rewarded with seventy-five cents. The bandit demanded that Mr. Burrows show him where there was more money and when he was convinced that there was no more to be had he left. Mr. Burrows immediately notified the officials.

The Burrows drug store was broken in again Friday night for the third time this summer, but there was no money to be had. Only on one occasion did the robber get any money, and then only a small amount.

Saturday night or early Sunday morning the Everett garage on west Superior street was entered by raising a side window. The burglar broke the handle on the safe and a hole was partly drilled in the lock when the drill broke, and the attempt to blow the lock was unsuccessful.

During the latter part of May the Munising Hardware Co., was broken into, the building being entered by breaking a hole through the glass on the side door and turning the night lock from the inside. Nothing was missing from the store. A few weeks later Hankin Co.'s store was entered, entrance being gained through the basement. A considerable quantity of small merchandise was taken. These two robberies were followed by two attempts to rob the Burrows drug store, the later the Cox Chevrolet garage was robbed of about $125.

None of these depredations upon property have so far been solved. Finger print experts on a couple of occasions were here to take finger prints.

Schneider Workers Continue Campaign Through Peninsula

James Bellanca, Jerome L. Caroselli and Peter J. Osinski, all of Detroit, who have been in Escanaba the last couple days in the interests of the U. S. senatorial candidacy of Ray D. Schneider of Detroit, left yesterday for Menominee to continue their campaign work.

They said that Schneider was unable to carry out plans to make a speaking trip in the upper peninsula before the primary due to a severe cold, and will concentrate his activities in lower Michigan this week.

The Detroit trio claim that Schneider will make a good run in Wayne county, where he has been prominent in business and political activities for several years.

Among the planks in Schneider's platform are sponsorship of the St. Lawrence waterway, federal unemployment insurance, payment of soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates, creation of a federal air force separate from the army and navy, building the American navy up to treaty limits, a permanent commission to control reciprocal tariff treaties, opposition to entrance of America in the League of Nations or the world court, permanent federal guarantee of all banks comprising the federal reserve system and "unequivocal support to all of President Roosevelt's policies on the grounds that the nation's first obligation is the protection and welfare of its citizens."

Schneider styles himself as a "Roosevelt Democrat."

Owners of Hunting Cabins Urged to Register at C. of C.

Persons who have cabins, situated in Delta county and the surrounding territory, available for rental by hunters this fall, are asked to register at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office.

Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the chamber of commerce, reports that every year during the hunting season his office receives a considerable number of inquiries from outside hunters, who wish to rent cabins in hunting territory.

FROM LONG KEY TO NOVA SCOTIA, the famous sportsman and writer, REX BEACH, has matched his skill and vitality against the big game fish of the Atlantic! Below he tells how he lights a Camel after fighting it out with a heavy fish—and soon "feels as good as new!"

REX BEACH TELLS YOU how to get back vim and energy when "Played Out!"

TOBACCO EXPERTS ALL SAY: "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish & Domestic—than any other popular brand."

"I have taken my share of big sailfish, marlin, and tuna," says Rex Beach, sportsman and noted writer. "I know what a rod-and-reel contest with these heavy fighters does to a man's vitality. When I've gotten a big fellow safely landed my next move is to light a Camel, and I feel as good as new. A Camel quickly gives me a sense of well-being and renewed energy.

"As a steady smoker, I have also learned that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves."

Thousands of smokers will recognize from their own experience just what Mr. Beach means when he says that he lights a Camel when tired and "feels as good as new." And science adds confirmation of this refreshing "energizing effect."

That's why you hear people say so often: "Get a lift with a Camel." Camels aren't flat or "sweetish." Their flavor never disappoints. You can smoke just as many Camels as you want—their finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS do not get on the nerves!

PHONE OPERATOR. Miss Marion Erickson says: "I smoke a lot! Since I changed to Camels, I find I never have to think about nerves. And Camels are so mild and taste so good, too!"

SALESMAN. Kenneth B. Logan says: "I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why I say 'only Camels'! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either."

TO CONSIDER HOUSING ACT

Local Group Meets Tonight to Plan Modernization Drive

Organization of a committee to cooperate with a government agency in a local campaign to promote the home modernization phase of the National Housing Act will probably be made at a meeting to be held in the Legion hall this evening. Last week a preliminary session was held at which local supply dealers, bankers and various tradesmen were present. Tonight's session is open to all persons directly interested in the plan.

Both banks of the city, the First National and State Savings, are qualified as loaning agencies under the federal act. Representatives of both have signified that the institutions will cooperate in the local campaign.

It is planned to have the City club sponsor the drive in Gladstone. Information relative to the plan will be disseminated through various agencies and prospective borrowers will be assisted in planning improvements and securing loans.

Under the act, home owners may borrow from $100 to $2,000 to make improvements or modernize their homes. The money is advanced on notes running from one to three years, for which an interest charge of 5 per cent discounted is made. The home must be clear of indebtedness. The amount which can be borrowed is one-fifth of the amount of revenue which will be earned in the period for which the money is borrowed.

Government estimates are that one billion dollars should be spent in the modernization and new home building campaign, which is a part of the housing act and which will be started later, and that between three and six million workers will be given employment. It is believed that about $50,000 will be spent in Gladstone.

CONTRACTORS INSPECT SITE

Jacobson Brothers, Duluth, Expect to Get Postoffice Job

Victor, John and J. M. Jacobson of the Duluth, Minn., contracting firm which submitted the low bid on the job of constructing the United States postoffice in Gladstone were in the city yesterday to look over the job.

No contract has yet been let, according to Victor Jacobson, but he stated that he was confident his firm would be awarded the job. He stated that the trip here was merely to look over the site and contact excavating contractors and local supply men so that construction may be rushed when the contract is finally let.

The Jacobsons submitted a bid of slightly over $36,000 which was about $1600 less than the second high bid.

As yet the site which has been selected by the government, has not been acquired. Recently dates were set upon which payment was to have been made but postponements were announced. Within the past few days, the owner, Allan Reynolds, was advised that a check will be made out within the next several weeks. Reynolds is allowed 60 days from date of transfer for removal of buildings from the property.

Marquette Pistol Shots Take Firsts At Peninsula Meet

Gladstone shooters placed third in the team and fifth in the individual events in the Upper Peninsula Pistol matches staged Sunday at Crystal Falls, under the auspices of the Crystal Falls Gun club.

Marquette sharpshooters, for the second straight year, took first honors in both events. First, second and third places in the individual event went to V. C. Micklow, S. Micklow and R. T. Micklow respectively, all of Marquette, who turned in aggregate scores of 250, 247 and 240. Charles Begole of Marquette was fourth with 233 and Torval Kallerson of Gladstone was fifth with 228. Kallerson had high score at the 50 yard stage. H. Willis, F. Struble, H. Holmberg and H. Switzer, all of Gladstone, placed 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th. Twenty-six shooters competed.

In the team event, a Marquette quartet composed of the three Micklows plus A. Jeanson, took first with a score of 981 out of a possible 1200. Another Marquette team composed of S. B. Willis, J. Luoma, J. Johnson and H. Ulrich was second with 871; a Gladstone team, composed of Kallerson, Willis, Struble and Holmberg, was third with 852. Crystal Falls was fourth, a mixed team fifth and Iron Mountain sixth.

Local club members were loud in their praise of the Crystal Falls range which has been developed within the past several months by club members with the assistance of Crystal Falls business men.

Water Jeopardy Seen in Leakage Of Dakota Wells

Vermilion, S. D. (AP)—South Dakota's artesian wells, tapping a subterranean flow, are threatening a depletion of a water reservoir accumulated over a million years, says E. P. Rothrock, state geologist.

In making this observation he said the supply would be exhausted in "the not distant future," unless what he terms tremendous waste is curbed. The artesian well situation, he added, may be likened to "a vein of coal or an ore body wastefully exploited."

Uncontrolled flow from wild wells and underground leakage, he said, is jeopardizing the state's most valuable mineral resource for several generations.

ENROLLMENT IN SCHOOLS HIGHER

Tentative Figures Show Slight Increase Over Previous Year

Enrollment figures for Manistique public schools which opened the 1934-35 school year Tuesday were not all tabulated up to yesterday noon, but school officials are of the opinion that total enrollment will be slightly above that of last year, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The only definite statistics available were those for Manistique high school where yesterday's enrollment showed a total of 388 as compared with 383 for the year before. Most surprising was the large freshmen enrollment, the class numbering 121 as compared with 109 for last year. Several of the freshmen, however, are "holdovers" from last year, a few of the students not having amassed sufficient credits to conform to sophomore standards.

Although enrollments will fluctuate somewhat during the first week or so of school, indications point to a slightly larger number of pupils in the grade schools. Estimates made yesterday morning indicated a larger attendance at Lincoln school, Lakeside about the same as the year prior, and a decrease at Riverside. No figures were available for the junior high school where enrollment is estimated to be about the same as in 1933.

High school enrollment by classes, which is expected to increase during the week, is as follows:

Class	1933	1934
Freshmen	109	121
Sophomores	106	92
Juniors	92	94
Seniors	76	81
Total	383	388

To The Voters
of Schoolcraft County:

I have very good reason to know that there is a certain candidate for sheriff peddling a certain radical amount of propaganda against me. He alleges that I am not a resident of Schoolcraft county and that I am not a taxpayer. To these statements I wish to say that I have resided in Schoolcraft county for fifteen years and have paid taxes for thirty-six years. I have also voted in this county. I am prepared to verify these statements.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM LAUX
Democratic candidate for Sheriff.

To Observe Church Night This Evening

Church Night will be observed this evening at the Methodist Episcopal church when a pot-luck supper will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the church basement and a splendid program will follow. Boxes for the building fund will be opened at this time.

Rev. George W. Wahlin, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, will be the principal speaker on a program of entertainment which will consist of instrumental and vocal music. Solos will be sung by Mrs. Lauritz Dreydahl and Harry Smith, Loreen Smith will offer a piano solo, Mrs. Kenneth Musson a reading, Dick Hoppins and Harry Smith will play a guitar duet, and the Misses Eleanor and Elsie Lofgren, piano and clarinet.

Local Anglers Hook 24 Trout Labor Day

One of the finest catches of the season was obtained Labor Day by C. J. Jansen and Rev. Joseph Grosa who hooked 24 beautiful speckled brook trout fishing at the headwaters of the Indian River.

None of the trout were under nine inches while five measured better than a foot in length. The fishermen used "muddlers" for bait. Owing to the brushiness of the stream, the anglers failed to land several big fellows. The catch was made on the last day of the season.

King Philip IV of Spain was seen to laugh in public only three times during his entire life.

New Survey Projects Proposed in Michigan

Houghton, Mich.—Several definite projects, designed to disclose the resources of Michigan for future development, were approved at the initial meeting of the Mineral Resource board of the Michigan Planning committee held at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton.

The first program to be attempted will be a survey, to be divided into three distinct projects; First, a horizontal control which involves the work of the coast and geodetic survey; second, an aerial survey, covering such counties which have not yet been surveyed; and, third, a topographic survey which is very incomplete in Michigan. This latter phase is particularly recommended for Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon counties in the copper district.

In addition to the technical work of field surveying, a coordination plan, correlating all existing surveys, will be attempted. Paralleling this state survey, a geological survey was recommended and a special committee appointed to map out that work. The committee includes F. G. Pardee, state appraiser of mines, chairman; Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of Michigan Tech, and Dr. T. M. Broderick and Dr. C. O. Swanson of the Geological department of Michigan Tech.

The geological survey will cover the copper district, the iron districts, the oil fields of the lower peninsula, the coal districts and some of the non-metallic areas of the state. Another geological project approved was a water survey covering the depth of water tables in the sandy areas of the northern part of the lower peninsula and the eastern section of the upper peninsula. The purpose is to determine the location of ground water for forest fire protection and agricultural development. This phase of the project was developed by R. A. Smith, state geologist, and P. S. Lovejoy of the Conservation department of the state. Another phase of the water survey, to be worked in co-operation with the stream control commission, will be an attempt to dispose of brines which are raised to the surface in oil operations.

A statistical project comprising the compilation and later the publication of data already accumulated by various divisions of the Conservation department also was approved. Glacial geology will be studied in the resort sections of the lower peninsula in the hope that methods of controlling levels of inland lakes will be developed. Sand and gravel deposits will be studied in cooperation with the state highway department; and the mining department of Michigan Tech was assigned the task of getting out a complete mining directory.

Silver and gold areas will receive special consideration in the program approved by the board and geologists will be assigned to that study. In connection with the geological survey in Houghton county, the geological committee approved setting up a project for trenching likely areas. Land owners will be asked to cooperate in the trenching program.

A geophysical project also was proposed, under the supervision of Dr. James Fisher, head of the Physics department of Michigan Tech. This survey will cover the copper district.

INLAND PICNIC HELD SUNDAY

Luther League Will Transact Important Business Thursday

The regular meeting of the Luther League will be held at the Zion Lutheran church parlors on Thursday evening at eight o'clock when an interesting program, headed by a talk by Mildred Wieland on "The Successful League," will be presented.

Important business matters will be discussed, the principal item of which will be a decision as to whether the league will function as one unit, as at present, or be organized into two sections, a junior and a senior league.

Other features of the program will be a chalk talk by Rev. and Mrs. George W. Wahlin and a vocal solo by Miss Bernice Carlson.

Following the program, refreshments will be served and games played. All members and prospective members are urged to be present at this important meeting.

U. P. Briefs

Mrs. Hornbogen Wins

Marquette—Mrs. Josephine P. Hornbogen was re-elected to the office of school trustee for a term of three years by a large majority at the school election held yesterday in the city hall. Despite the inclement weather and the holiday a large vote was cast.

Mrs. Hornbogen received 807 votes, while her opponent was given 128, the winner having a majority of 679. A total of 943 ballots were cost, of which eight were spoiled.

Longyear Plant Runs

Marquette—An optimistic outlook for increased industrial operations in Marquette was forecast yesterday with an announcement that the E. J. Longyear company has resumed operations in its plant at Michigan and Walnut streets for the first time since 1930. O. B. Anderson expressed an opinion that production will be maintained and possibly increased in the near future.

TRENARY NEWS

Trenary, Mich.—Miss Hilda Webber visited the Century of Progress in Chicago over the week-end. She was accompanied from Gladstone by her nieces, "Babe" Snyder and June Snyder and Morris White, all of Gladstone.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knaus visited with Mrs. Knaus' parents in Iron River over the week-end.

Rudolph Johnson who is a member of the CCC is visiting his parents at Winters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bennet have been called to Wisconsin by the death of Mr. Bennet's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Allen and three children of Lexington, Kentucky visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trenary. Mr. Allen is a professor in the University of Kentucky at Lexington and was a boyhood friend of Mr. Davis and Mr. Trenary when all three of them lived in Ossian, Indiana. This is the first time that he has seen either Mr. Trenary or Mr. Davis in thirty-five years.

Mrs. John Knaus was hostess Thursday to a group of young ladies from Traunik at a party in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Christina Knaus. Miss Knaus is taking nurse's training in Elgin and is home for a short vacation.

Jim Trenary, who is located in a CCC camp near Iron River, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Trenary.

Joseph O'Leary Jr., who is employed by the state highway department visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Leary Sr. of Chatham.

Miss Violet Brown arrived Sunday from Mankato, Minn., to resume her duties as instructor in the kindergarten and the first grade in the Trenary schools.

Koresh Funeral

A large crowd of friends attended the last rites of Joseph Koresh Sr., held Sunday from the St. Rita's Catholic church of Trenary. The funeral services were held at eleven o'clock after the regular Sunday services, burial was in the Trenary cemetery. Reverend Doucette of Trenary officiated at the services.

Mr. Koresh, who died Thursday at 9:30 p. m. in the Manistique hospital has been ill for about two years, but his condition did not become serious until two weeks ago when he was taken to the Manistique hospital. He was fifty-two years old and is survived by his wife and seven children.

Some of the people who attended the Trenary-Gwinn baseball game Sunday at Gwinn were George Maynard, William Orva, Edward Orva, Francis Cauchon, Miss Irene Webber, Miss Elizabeth Richmond, Walter Vogel, and Frank Carr.

The Trenary diamondball team was unable to play either one of their games last week. The Kiva game was called off because the Kiva team failed to show up, and the Chatham game was cancelled because of rain.

Jane Spellmaker has returned to the home of her father, Clyde Spellmaker, after spending the summer at a health camp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Herman Johnson arrived Friday morning from Cadillac and have moved into the Vaughan residence where they will make their home for the coming year. Mr. Johnson will be Trenary's new superintendent of schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Finlan and family, and Mrs. Finlan's brother, Mr. Wallace Peterson, of Menominee spent the week-end with Mrs. Finlan's relatives in Menominee.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—Financial markets had little appetite for post-holiday recovery today and the downward drift of prices continued in most departments.

Stocks, while not under excessive pressure at any time, were unable to climb out of the rut into which they slipped last week-end. Both public and professional indifference was exemplified by the fact that only 308,930 shares changed hands in the five-hour session.

Although leading issues were quite narrow throughout the slow proceedings, the Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks showed a net decline of half a point at 72. This average is now about mid-way between the year's low of 66.4 and the high of 79.4.

Those market commentators who had been optimistically forecasting a turn for the better in both prices and trading volumes after Labor Day were inclined to attribute their failure to call the cards partly to the timidity engendered by the textile strike which, it is feared, may retard recovery seriously if the walk-out lasts any length of time.

Some of the metal shares were a trifle soft in the early hours, but most of these ended with only small fractional declines. American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Bethlehem Steel and a number of others emerged with small advances. Case more than halved a 2-point loss. Such issues as U. S. Steel, New York Central, Santa Fe and National Distillers were only slightly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Sept. 4—Late rallies in wheat today that virtually overcame substantial preceding losses followed announcement the United States visible supply showed the earliest decrease in recent years.

A reduction of the domestic wheat visible supply at this season is most unusual as normally the stock does not start to decrease until after the turn of the year. Helping the late rally of wheat prices were indications that the peak pressure of newly harvested wheat in Canada would be passed this week.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ off to 3/8 up compared with Saturday's finish; corn 5/8 to 7/8 down; oats 1/8 to 5/8 advanced; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Corn sagged owing a good deal to U. S. 15,000 bushels enlargement of the corn visible supply. Oats price returns were associated with government buying for feed purposes.

Provisions declined fractions on account of excellent cash demand for lard and in the result of a more favorable outlook for exports.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—Renewed pressure on U. S. government issues, some of which lost as much as ¾ of a point, provided the only feature in an otherwise dull bond market today. Corporate loans were irregular.

Transfers approximated $18,617,000, par value, compared with $12,814,000 Friday. Of this total the turnover in governments accounted for $14,170,000 or more than 75 percent. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 60 domestic corporate issues declined three-tenths of a point to 83.8.

Trading Is Light

The forthcoming treasury financing, details of which will be announced next Monday, formed a lively topic of conversation in government bond circles as values fell still further away from Saturday's closing. Home Owners Loan 3s sold at a new record low at 97.10, off nearly ¾ of a point on the day, and the 4s were likewise at a new low at 97.10, off more than ¾ of a point.

Prime corporate investment issues moved in an uncertain manner with trading so light as to form no definite trend. American Telephone debentures 5s were ¼ higher at 109 while the convertible 4½s lost ¼ at 108¼. Burlington general 4s advanced ½ to 102½ and Union Pacific 4s were 1 3-8 higher at 95½. Fractional gains were held by some obligations of Skelly Oil, Wilson & Co., North American Edison, Midvale Steel, Detroit Edison, Cleveland Union Terminal and Bell Telephone of Penna.

Bonds selling slightly lower included some of Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Alton, St. Paul, Erie, Interboro, New York Dock, Portland Gas & Electric and Southern Pacific. Otis Steel 6s yielded 3 points to 62.

New York, Sept. 4 Plans for the revival of expansion of the country's foreign trade will be discussed at a meeting in New York on October 31 of the National Foreign Trade Council, of which James A. Farrell is chairman.

Purchases of American raw cotton by consumers in Poland increased 40 percent during the first half of the current year, according to reports to one of the leading Polish steamship companies, which added that there were 445 textile mills operating in that country at the present time with 2,000,000 spindles.

The National Association of Credit Men reports a continuance of the regular summer slump in sales and collections during the month of August with 11 percent of reports listing collections as "good," 25 percent as "slow," and 64 percent as "fair."

Shattuck-Denn Mining Corp. will resume operations at its Denn Mines, Bisbee, Arizona, within the next 2 weeks, it was announced today. The reason for resuming operations is to do certain underground developments, rather than to produce copper, it was stated, although a limited amount of copper ore will be sent to the El Paso smelter of the American Smelting & Refining Co. where it will be used as a flux with the increasing amount of siliceous gold and silver ores now being offered to that smelter.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank showed no imports and export of $4,988,700 to France. There was no change in the stocks held under earmark for foreign account.

Business failures in the United States for the week ended August 30 was reduced to 202 from 218 for the week previous according to Dun & Bradstreet Inc. This compared with 311 and 349, respectively, for the same week of the two preceding years, the report states.

her, fretted over her. Why, sometimes at night she woke up in a cold fright, shivering at the thought that perhaps she would never see her mother again.

She shook off the sick fancy. Russ would do fine things, make something big of himself. Then she wouldn't be ashamed to go back home, face everybody. She had been foolish, hadn't given her marriage sufficient consideration beforehand. But she would show them some time that it had all been for the best.

Lou came in and lights went on garishly, brilliantly all over the small square rooms. The smell of frying meat and bubbling corn permeated the apartment.

"Aren't you hungry?"

"No. Not very. I—" Boots hesitated over the words—"I met an old friend. She took me to lunch."

Gloria's eyes lighted avidly. "The Ritz, huh. Guess you can't see our eats." Her face looked mean, looked curious in the bright glare of the overhead fixture.

"No," Boots said quietly. "Just a tearoom."

Lou ate quickly, noisily, not joining in the conversation. He did not believe in "jawing" at meal time, he often said. Eating was a serious business.

Boots offered to wash the dishes and Gloria, anxious to get back to her basting, did not protest. At nine o'clock when she was hanging the last pan on its hooks she heard Russ at the door. He came in briskly, bringing a breath of cold, fresh air with him.

"The boy wonder!" He thumped himself on the chest.

Boots ran into his arms. "You've got something?"

"Yep!" He held her off at arm's length. "A club at Miami. Better than the one last year."

Boots danced in sheer excitement. "Miami! I've never been there."

"Hold on a minute, kiddy. I can't take you with me. You'll have to stay behind for a while at least."

CHAPTER XXIII

It was a raw, gray November morning. Boots, walking across Thirty fourth street through whirling eddies of rain that threatened momentarily to turn into snow was conscious in spite of a gnawing hunger at the pit of her stomach, in spite of the thinness of her shoes and the razor edge of the wind whipping her skirts about her knees of a sense of adventure.

The job at Lacy's was already an old story to her. She had been in the chintz department for more than four weeks now, the lowliest of all the clerks. She had gone through the agonizing first weeks of learning to stand on her feet all day, amazed that the human body could stand so much pure torture without whimpering. At night it had been heaven to hobble back to her room to plunge those aching feet into a tub of warm water. Merely to rest to sit perfectly still gazing into nothingness had been a sort of quivering bliss.

She was past that stage now. She could make out a sales check without trembling. She knew the colors and the designs: the Victorian cabbage roses, the blue chintz with the white stag design which all the decorators were using, the stars in red and white and all the others. She knew which were 79 cents a yard and which were less. She felt sometimes as though she never wanted to see a spray of hyacinths or a funnel of delphinium again. If she had a house of her own, she determined, savagely eyeing the pushing horde of women at the Monday sales, she would have the chairs upholstered in leather, the windows hung in oilcloth.

This was Monday again. Half past eight. The doors of the big store would presently be flung open and women from Brooklyn, Staten Island, from Westchester, from uptown Park Avenue, from the Bronx, from Chelsea and Queens and Teaneck would rush in. Five yards of this . . . six of that. Is this sunproof, miss? How much do I need for a chaise lounge slip cover? My change come back yet? Where is the china department now?

Already she heard their harsh, demanding, clamoring voices. The air would thicken. Scraps of paper would collect behind counters. Salesbooks would maddeningly lose themselves under bolts of material. The morning would drag on. She would go to lunch at half past 11. Forty-five minutes for lunch. It wasn't much. It meant she might go no further than the drug store around the corner. Lacy's had a lunch room for its employes but after one or two half-hearted sorties upon it, finding the food all tasted curiously like old boiled cabbage, the girl had given it up in favor of the inevitable sandwich and soft drink which comprises the midday meal of so many thousands.

She was getting $18 a week now and thought it wonderful. True it was not enough—it was not nearly enough—to keep body and soul together in this America's greatest and richest city, but it enabled her, in the day's phrase, to "get by." That was all anyone asked. . . .

Down in Greenwich Village in the apartment of a large, friendly and rather untidy Mrs. Mooney, she had a box of a room for $5 a week. Sometimes when the weather was not too bad she walked to work, a matter of 20-odd blocks. She never walked at night, however. Her tired body protested that particular economy.

At first when Russ had announced he was going to Florida and that she was to be left behind, "for a time at least," Boots had been dazed with hurt and anger. What on earth should she do alone in New York? To stay with Russ's brother and his wife was unthinkable. Russ's suggestion that she go back to her father's house had met with silence, the silence of defeat, almost of contempt. She had been sullen, voiceless for a day or two as he went briskly about the business of packing. She had been conscious of sheer panic. Then the letter from Lacy's had come on the eve of Russ's departure. Would she report on the following morning? Part time work at $14 a week was offered her.

She had literally jumped at the chance. Russ had viewed the situation calmly. It had seemed to him perfectly all right that his wife should manage to exist on that sum. He had not waited to see her settled. His train had left the very night she had moved into the furnished room at Mrs. Mooney's.

Well, that was over now; the physical wrench of parting with Russ was over. She had been a bride a few short months ago. Now she was completely alone. In her heart she still confidently expected Russ to send for her. "Any day now," she assured herself stoutly. This was just a bitter interlude to be got through—wet shoes, aching feet, shabby carpets, food-smelling rooms. Soon she would be with her husband in a warm and sunny land with blue skies arching overhead. They had met and loved in an atmosphere of sunshine. This nightmare of cold winds and lonely nights would pass.

She was in the employes' elevator now, zooming upward. Sixth floor. Southern wear. Beach umbrellas and cork sandals a peach-colored jersey suit on a bronzed mannequin, lolling elegantly on a sand beach under brilliant simulated daylight. Boots caught her breath. She would buy just such a bathing suit as that before she left to join Russ. She had $8 saved toward her ticket. . . . Last week she had hoped to save more but she had had a cold and had had to buy medicine a throat astringent and some rubbers. . . .

The dressing room smelled of wet wool and cheap scent. Girls milling around, touching up their hair, stowing boots into lockers. A jumble of words . . .

"And I just said to him, I said, 'What do you take me for?' . . . "We went to Radio City. . . . Oh, the ballet was lovely." . . . "It's Coty's Paris; d'you like it." . . . "A double decker at the Barrel Bar" . . . "they give you a dill pickle. . . ."

A gong boomed somewhere and the chip-chip of feet in the corridor outside swelled to a symphony. Clerks from the aluminumware, clerks from the furniture department, from the shoes, the ribbons, the linens, the underwear, the millinery shop were all hastening to their posts.

A few girls nodded to Boots. That tall Miss Apfel from the awning materials gave her a pleasant smile. Boots had lunched with her one day. She was from upstate. She had, she confided, taken nurse's training but hadn't been able "to stand the gaff." She was plump but not overly strong. Very neat was Miss Apfel, in her dark wool, with the crisp organdie frill at the throat.

"Going to be a big day, dear," she whispered as they swung along toward their posts on the seventh floor.

Boots nodded. Monday was always terrible even with a long, lazy Sunday behind. At five o'clock on Mondays your feet ached with a slow, steady, blinding ache. . . .

The rush began. It seemed to Boots she did not really draw breath until 11:30. She had been so busy she had actually forgotten the 15 minutes' relief which was due her. This last customer tendered a $10 bill.

"I'll take the package with me."

Lacy's still used the antiquated change conveyor system. The customer's money was deposited in a sort of metal cradle along with the sales slip and dispatched in the pneumatic tube which shot to the nether regions where a cashier made the proper change.

The customer tapped her foot with nervous impatience and Boots, answering questions, throwing out bolt after bolt, measuring, cutting, was conscious of the narrowed eyes and frown, of the waiting woman.

"Where on earth is my change? Black eyes snapped angrily.

"I'll see. Just a moment, madam."

Boots clicked the tube several times. There was no response. She went to the telephone and called the operator below stairs. The customer's impatience grew, deepened.

"There there seems to be some difficulty," Boots explained.

"So I see." The woman bit her lips furiously. "Call the department manager, please."

Mr. Bliss, his white carnation proclaiming him one of Lacy's "trouble busters," came up, smiling urbanely.

"I gave this young woman a $10 bill ages ago," snapped the irate customer. "The change hasn't come back."

Mr. Bliss questioned Boots, telephoned, came back frowning. Miss O'Toole, he said, reported no $10 bill had been sent through the tubes from this station for the past half hour.

"But," Boots protested, "you saw me put it into the tube along with your sales slip." She turned her white face toward Mr. Bliss.

"I saw nothing." The woman lifted arrogant shoulders.

"It will be made good," Mr. Bliss assured her. He lifted his eyebrows in Boots' direction—a very aloof, assured, impeccable young man. He went off with the customer in tow.

"Go to lunch, dear," said Mary Asterson, one of Boots' counter mates a moment later.

"But what's going to happen now?" Boots stammered. Her head ached, her morning's hunger had settled like a kind of black sickness at the very core of her being.

"Oh, nothing much," Mary said airily. "The worst they can do is to take it out of your pay. Those things happen sometimes."

Curb Mart Records Narrow Changes

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—With trading volume around record low, the curb exchange recorded narrowly mixed changes today.

The list was slightly easier at the start and the lower price drift continued well into the afternoon. However, in the last hour prices turned upward and cancelled or reduced the early losses of fractions to around a point.

Utilities were rather resistant throughout the day. Oil, metals and alcohols ruled mixed. Commonwealth Edison, Sherwin Williams, Armstrong Cork, Humble Oil, Flintkote A and Fisk Rubber finished steady to slightly higher.

Dow Chemical lost 3¼ points. Pan American Airways dipped 2. Swift International was off a point while lesser recessions appeared in Electric Bond and Share, Swift & Co., International Petroleum, Aluminum Company of America and United Shoe Machinery.

Detroit Baseball Mad as Tigers Return Home

CROWDS CHEER COCHRANE CREW

Philadelphia Will Begin Invasion of Eastern Teams Today

Detroit, Sept. 4 (AP)—The roar of a baseball mad city shook Detroit like an earthquake tonight as the Detroit Tigers came home to Navin field.

Men, women and children crowded the depot train shed and broke down police lines to get their hands on Mickey Cochrane and his pennant bound athletes.

The biggest and best of Detroit's police in the homecoming demonstration had to fight their way to the train to ward off the cheering crowds from the ball palyers as they dropped in from Chicago, where rain had halted for the second time in two days the scheduled double-header with the White Sox.

Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, the pitching ace who ran his string of triumphs to 16 straight, was the chief target for the admiring crowd, and he escaped being mobbed only because two husky officers fairly kidnapped him from the station to get him into a taxi cab.

Cochrane, Gehringer, White, Greenberg, Owen, Goslin and the rest of the lineup, also required special police assistance to get out of the station. The cheers of the thousands of baseball fans were mingled with the blare of band music, and the autograph seekers tried to form a flying wedge to get at their favorites.

Field Is Enlarged

The spontaneous celebration was tipped off earlier in the day when Frank J. Navin, president of the club, and Charles F. Navin, the club secretary, announced that the city had approved a plan for the building of 17,000 bleacher seats out in the left field at the Tigers' home grounds.

It was the first public acknowledgement from the club owners that a world series might be staged in Detroit, although the faithful legion of Tigers fans have been chanting the victory cry since last June when the Tigers started their 14 game winning streak.

The new bleacher seats will cost the Navins $25,000, which at this stage of the season amounts to a bet of $25,000 that the Tigers will win the pennant with the Giants as probable opponents.

Meanwhile the downtown welcoming committee for the Tigers was unable to attend the homecoming in full force. They were closeted in a hotel sample room wondering where to store the truck loads of gifts that have poured in from all over the state for the Tiger athletes.

Silk underwear, neckties, hats, suits and jewelry comprise the bulk of the gifts, although the committee found in checking up that enough automobiles had been sent to Mickey Cochrane to supply every member of the Detroit club with a car apiece.

The Tigers begin a long home stand Wednesday, broken only by a four day visit to St. Louis. The Philadelphia Athletics will be here Wednesday afternoon to begin the invasion of the eastern clubs, and Schoolboy Rowe or Alvin Crowder will likely share the pitching duties for the day.

The home stand will probably see the attendance figures at Navin field swelled to record proportions. Plans have already been announced for many special trains to bring out-state fans to the last of the Tigers' home games.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Giants' two entries, Bill Terry and Mel Ott, failed to take advantage of their opportunity to gain on the other Big Six batsmen yesterday when they took part in a double-header while all their rivals were idle. They continued to occupy the last two places in the sextet as Terry managed to keep his .352 average unchanged by batting safely three times in nine trips to the plate and Ott dropped a point to .345 with two hits in seven times up. The standing:

John Cass Winner Of Escanaba Golf Club Tournament

John Cass captured the golf championship of the Escanaba club Monday, defeating Tom Gander in the finals, 2 and 1. Dr. Fischer won the second flight by defeating Charles Gessner in the finals, one up.

In reaching the final round of the championship flight, Cass upset A. S. Kitchen, and Gander eliminated W. R. Smith.

Charles Gessner eliminated C. B. Kitchen, 4 and 3, and Dr. Fischer erased Harold Lindsay, 6 and 5, in the second flight.

In the beaten four, first flight, Stack Smith defeated Harold Gessner for this honor and Bill Boucher defeated Bill Smith for the honor in the beaten four, second flight.

Trojans Seek Strength in Their Forward Wall

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Los Angeles, Sept. 4 (AP)—Unless Howard Harding Jones, the head football man at Southern California, is as reticent in his soliliquies as he is in conversing with others, he has spoken to H. H. Jones, line coach, about the distressing need of rebuilding the famed forward wall of Troy this season.

With such recognized backfield stars as Irving Warburton, the scotting 145-pound All-American quarterback; Cal Clemens and Al Reboin, halves and Haskell Wotkyns, fullback, returning from other years along with competent new material, head man Jones has gone into close caucus with line coach Jones about more urgent matters.

Of the thirteen lettermen lost from the 1934 squad, nine were members of the line, including that sturdy pair of guards, Aaron Rosenberg and Larry Stevens; Captain Ford Palmer at end, Bob Erskine, a tackle and Curtis Touel, first string center. Only two regulars, Captain Julius Rescos, left end and Hueston Harper, right tackle are back.

But Jones, who thrusts his line problems in no other's hands, has risen to the emergency. An eleven game schedule including two intersectional conflicts awaits, and the critics for the most part have prematurely charged him with at least two defeats.

From last season's reserves he has picked Ward Browning to fill at right end for Palmer and has made Art Dittberner, a sub tackle, into right guard. Francis McGinley and Herb Tatsch have been given first call at left guard and tackle where they subbed a year ago. And for a center he has made over Kenneth Carpenter, a frosh tackle, to fill in as pivot.

Jones has given his backfield some thought. Warburton probably will be the only All-American in the country who will not enjoy the honor of being listed in the starting lineups. As of other years, he will be used as the "climax" player with Bill Howard, a substitute of 1933, getting first call.

The Trojan eleven again will enjoy the full team tandem shift, with the usual alterations made from game to game. The schedule:

Sept. 22—Occidental and Whittier at Los Angeles.
Sept. 29—College of the Pacific at Los Angeles.
Oct. 6 Washington State at Los Angeles.
Oct. 13 Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 20 Oregon State at Los Angeles.
Oct 27 Stanford at Palo Alto.
Nov. 10 California at Los Angeles.
Nov. 17 Oregon at Los Angeles.
Dec. 1 Washington at Los Angeles.
Dec. 8 Notre Dame at Los Angeles.

JOE ANDERSON DEFEATS WADE

Lloyd Cook Wins Close Decision Over Roy at Negaunee

Negaunee, Sept. 3. A capacity crowd of 1,500 persons was surprised when Joe Anderson, of Gladstone, completely outclassed Eddie Wade, of Chicago, in the final bout of a boxing card staged in the Adelphi rink here this evening. The Gladstone fighter had the former Chicago Golden Gloves champion down for a count of nine in the third of their five-round finale.

Lloyd "Quig" Cook, of Munising, won a close decision over Roy Anderson, of Gladstone, in a very thrilling semi-final bout. Both men stood toe to toe during their fight, and entertained fans with one of the best matches of the evening.

Ed Spica, of Bay City, won a decision over George Beaudette, of Munising, in the opening preliminary. Spica weighed 178 pounds, and his opponent was five pounds less. In a very close fight between "Flash" Bonetti, of Ishpeming, and Bucky Tippett, of North Lake, the former was awarded the decision. Both battlers weighed in at 155 pounds. Babe Taccolini, of Princeton, at 117 pounds, won a decision over Roy Tippett, of North Lake, at 120 pounds.

Tony Taccolini, subbing for Clarence Thibodeau, who failed to appear, provided the only knockout of the evening when he sent "Butch" Johnson, of Beacon, to the canvas for the full count in the second round of the main preliminary bout.

Art Sundling, of Escanaba, refereed the entire program, and judges for the show were Dr. Wharton, of Cwinn, George Hurley, of Marquette, and Jack Beauchamp, of Ishpeming.

Walter Wilmers, upper peninsula welterweight champion, has been signed to meet "Sailor" Milt Kell, of Wilson, Mich., in a bout that will be held September 28, it was announced during the fights tonight. The fight will be a return match. Wilmers having defeated Kell in a former bout.

Brewers Win From Eagles By 4 to 3

The Brewers defeated the Riverview Eagles Monday, 4 to 3, at Brewers diamond behind the effective pitching of Arnold (Tarzan, alias Smokeball) Johnson. The game was called in the sixth because of poor weather conditions.

Although they held the top end of the score in the abbreviated game, the Brewers are particularly anxious to meet the Eagles once more and have issued a challenge which has not yet been taken up.

The Brewers battery: Johnson and Snyder. Riverview—LaFleur and Flath.

Ernie Flath Wins Highland Crown

Ernie Flath captured the Highland Golf club championship over the Labor Day holiday by defeating H. McPherson Monday, one up in a 19 hole match. Both played well considering the unfavorable weather conditions.

In reaching the finals, Flath upset Howard Johnson, 4-3, and McPherson eliminated M. Jensen, one up.

GIANTS DEFEAT PHILLIES TWICE

World Champs Put on Two Rallies to Take Double Bill

Philadelphia, Sept. 4 (AP) The Giants picked on the ninth inning today as time to score the runs that won them both games of a doubleheader from the Phillies, 3 to 2 and 6 to 5.

The double victory increased New York's lead over the idle Cubs and Cardinals, who are tied for second place, to seven games, with 24 to go for the Giants and 26 for their rivals before the season ends. The Phils' two losses, incidentally, left them only one game ahead of the cellar dwelling Cincinnati Reds.

In the opener Curt Davis and Carl Hubbell engaged in a 2 to 2 pitching duel for eight frames. Up to that time Davis had allowed only four hits, but successive doubles by Travis Jackson and Hank Leiber in the ninth produced the winning run.

Hubbell, although touched for nine hits, spaced them well enough to gain his 19th mound victory of the season.

The climax of the second game provided an even greater thrill for the crowd of 7,000. Trailing from the first inning, the Giants went into the ninth one run behind. Harry Danning opened the inning with a single and George Watkins ran for him. Then Joe Moore stepped up and belted one of Sylvester Johnson's pitches over the right field wall, scoring the winning run behind Watkins' tying counter.

Johnson had replaced Chief Euel Moore in the eighth after the Giants had scored their fourth run. Fred Fitzsimmons was taken out for a pinch hitter in the same inning and Al Smith was credited with the victory.

Former Champion Is Ousted Out Of Girls' Net Meet

Philadelphia, Sept. 4 (AP) Hope Knowles, 15-year-old miss of Great Neck, Long Island, caused the first real upset in the United States lawn tennis girls championship matches today, but fell a victim in a later match.

Miss Knowles, her blonde plaids coming to her elbows, struck out well with both forehand and backhand to defeat Helen Grawn, Grosse Point, Mich., 1933 indoor girl champion, 4-6, 6-3, and 6-3.

Her own Waterloo came at the hands of an unseeded weilder, Patty Kilmartin, also 15, of Miami Beach, Fla., by 6-4, 6-2, sending Miss Kilmartin into the quarter finals.

Spectators at the Cricket club also found much to applaud in the second seeded player, May Hope Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., sister of John Doeg, 1930 men's national champion, who unloosed a strong service to defeat Cecil McLaren, of Glendale, Ohio, 6-3, 6-1.

The Ohio girl used a strong, free hit service, a full blooded forehand but a weak backhand, which Miss Doeg ferretted out although she did not spare Miss McLaren's right side of the court.

Cochrane Meets Jibes Of Terry With Posies

BY PAUL MICKELSON

Chicago, Sept. 4 (AP)—Mickey Cochrane, diplomat, answered Bill Terry's latest blast with flowers today.

Instead of getting all burned up over Terry's remarks in Philadelphia that Mickey's Detroit Tigers would be easier to beat in the world series than Washington and that Fred Marberry's fast one couldn't pierce a pancake, the soft spoken pilot of the pennant poised Tigers merely tossed posies at Memphis Bill and his crew of Giants.

A Good Ball Club

"If we get into the world series," Diplomat Mickey grinned, "we will do our best to beat the Giants, but we realize they are a great ball club with a great manager. It is a smart team that played smart baseball in the world series against Washington.

"From the regulars right down through the reserves, the Giants are exceptionally strong in a short series and we realize that. They have a very smooth working infield with more experience than our own. Hubbell? He's a pitching genius and you can bet that he'll try harder to beat Detroit than any other club, perhaps, because he was with the Tigers on a couple spring training trips. And Hubbell isn't the only Giant pitching star either. Yes sir! Those Giants are almost invincible in a short series and we know it."

Cochrane chuckled at Terry's remark about Marberry's fast ball. "Hum, we haven't used Marberry much as a starting pitcher," he laughed with an inference that Terry didn't keep very close track of the Tigers. "Our starting pitchers are Rowe, Bridges and Auker, you know."

Mickey kept right on chuckling. Somehow, he appeared like a fellow who hands you a lot of compliments about your bridge game and then sets you five tricks doubled, vulnerable.

But about the American League pennant, which the Tigers appear to have salted away, Mickey refused to talk much.

"We're worrying about each game as it comes along and not about the pennant exactly," Mickey said as he looked hopefully at the sky for a break in the rain that has kept his team idle for two days. "Lots can happen between now and September 30. We've been lucky to escape without any serious injuries so far and have our fingers crossed."

HAGEN COMES ON SATURDAY

Golf Exhibition Will Be Free to General Public

Much interest is being shown in the forthcoming appearance of Walter Hagen, noted golfer, in an exhibition match at the Escanaba Country club next Saturday. The general public is invited to witness the exhibition. No admission charge will be made.

Walter Hagen

Hagen is spending his vacation at the William Bonifas summer home on Lake Gogebic, near Marenisco. He was scheduled to give an exhibition here last Friday, but was obliged to postpone the event until next Saturday.

The "Mighty Haig" recently returned from a tour of the east. In 12 exhibitions, he broke five course records, his scores ranging all the way from 64 to 68. He was won, during his more than a score years of tournament golf, three times as many events as any other golfer.

The exhibition will be held here Saturday, rain or shine.

Trenary Loses at Gwinn; Score, 10-3

Trenary, Sept. 4 (Special) The Trenary baseball team dropped a 10-3 decision at Gwinn Sunday in a game that was called at the sixth inning because of rain. Neither team displayed their best brand of ball as both sides were handicapped by the slippery ball and the poor visibility. Several times pop flies fell for hits because the fielders were unable to judge the ball against the dark sky.

Quarfoote pitched for Trenary, and was hit hard and far, several Marquette county boys hits going for extra bases. Maki of Gwinn was also hit frequently but he kept his hits scattered.

Cleveland Rallies To Defeat Browns

St. Louis, Sept. 4 (AP) The Browns garnered three runs in the first inning today, but timely clouting by the Cleveland Indians, including two home runs, soon erased the lead, and the visitors won their third straight game, 8 to 4.

Averill and Trosky, who hit home runs in yesterday's double bill, repeated the performance before a handful of fans today. It was Trosky's thirteenth homer of the season and Averill's twenty-fifth.

Lloyd Brown, who started for Cleveland, and gave two hits and two walks as well as hitting Pepper, was jerked in the second for a pinch hitter and Clint Brown finished.

Score by innings:

NATIONAL MINE U. P. CHAMPIONS

Delta County Teams All Eliminated at Ishpeming Tourney

Ishpeming, Sept. 3—A six-run rally in the fourth inning was enough for the National Mine team to defeat the L. S. & I. Rails, of Marquette, 9 to 6, in the final game of the upper peninsula softball tournament held in Ishpeming yesterday and today.

The two teams reached the final round of the tourney by emerging victorious over a field of 27, representing the best softball talent in upper Michigan. National Mine will go to Chicago as the upper peninsula's entrant in the national soft-ball tournament.

In the semi-final round of the meet National Mine defeated the Marble Arms, of Gladstone, 6 to 5, in a 10-inning game, and the L. S. & I. took a 2 to 1 thriller from the Munising bonds. In the National Mine game the Marble Arms tied the count in the sixth inning and held their opponents until the first of the tenth frame. Cardew walked in that inning and Kulsti drove him home for the winning run with a two-base drive.

CONES SHIPPED FOR TREE SEED

Over Thousand Bushels Collected by CCC In Hiawatha Forest

More than a thousand bushels of cones are being collected by the Civilian Conservation Corps camps on the Hiawatha National Forest, according to Ranger Geo. D. Ferrari.

Logging operations and good stands of timber are being searched for good seed to send to the nurseries for the growth of small trees to be shipped back to the National Forests for the tree planting program. There has been an unusually good seed crop this year and the forest service is taking every opportunity to collect all the cones they can.

There are to be 525 bushels of white pine, 535 bushels of jack pine, 215 bushels of norway pine, 240 bushels of white spruce and 30 bushels of black spruce cones to be picked by the camps this fall.

The seed will be shipped to the forest service nursery at Rhinelander where it will be separated from the cones. Some of it will then be planted at the nursery there, while the remainder will be returned to the forest service nursery at Manistique for planting. The jack pine remain in the nursery from one to two years, while the other species are allowed to grow two or three years before replanting. The small seedling will then be shipped to the various forests for use in planting areas which are now barren.

CHINA'S HERO HERE

"China's only hope is to resist and resist," General Tsai Ting Hai, commander of the famous 19th Route Army that held the Japanese in check at Shanghai, asserted on his arrival in New York, adding that he would join forces with any faction ready to dedicate itself to driving Japanese troops out of his native land.

Observance of Labor Day Big Event for Escanaba

Labor Day was celebrated in Escanaba Monday with appropriate exercises, featured by the largest and most interesting Labor Day parade seen here in many years.

The parade, in which more than four hundred union workers participated, along with commercial and civic organizations, was held in the morning on Ludington street. In the afternoon, a picnic was held at South Park, where various athletic events were staged and addresses on labor problems were delivered by Congressman Prentiss M. Brown and A. E. Radford, Pontiac, veteran organizer of the American Federation of Labor. John Luecke, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council, was chairman of the afternoon speaking program. Mayor Carl J. Sawyer delivered the address of welcome.

Unions March

The parade was headed by the Escanaba Municipal band, following which marched the members of the Paper Makers locals of Escanaba and Manistique, attired in white uniforms and with their characteristic paper hats, made of varied colored newsprint. Pulp and sulphite mill workers of both cities came next in the procession. Other unions taking part in the parade were those representing the brewery, dock, sheet metal, typographical, machinists, carpenters and railway workers.

An attractive patriotic float was entered in the parade by the American Legion and Auxiliary. The Gold Star mother in the float was Mrs. A. Roberts, 816 First avenue south, who held a flag brought back from France, where she visited her son's grave sometime ago. Mrs. Hugh Boyle, in portraying the war nurse, wore the same uniform she used when in the Red Cross service, during the World war. Archie Wood and Roy Baldwin were attired as a soldier and sailor, respectively.

Mules Lead Democrats

Both the Republicans and Democrats were represented in a separate rear section of the parade. There were a number of decorated automobiles advertising various candidates, several elephant figures mounted on cars, and two live donkeys.

In his brief address, Congressman Brown declared that the 73rd congress had enacted more far-reaching labor legislation than had been supplied by all other congressional sessions. He said that President Roosevelt holds the view that the returns to labor of all classes generally have not been sufficient to compensate for their toil.

"We know that the average worker cannot make enough in the productive years of his life to take care of himself and family in his old age," Congressman Brown said. "The Roosevelt administration is now making a study of various plans of social insurance, preparatory to introducing such legislation at the next session of congress."

The congressman mentioned briefly that the old age pension law, enacted in Michigan, although not perfect, is a step in the right direction. It should and undoubtedly will be better financed in the near future, he predicted.

Urged to Organize

Brown referred to the Crosser railway retirement act as the greatest piece of labor legislation passed by the last congress. He explained briefly that all railway employees who have attained the age of 65 years or have been 30 years in the service would be automatically placed in retirement. He said that the act will accomplish two purposes; namely, security in old age and reduction of unemployment by opening up jobs for younger men. He explained that the pensions would be financed by the employed worker giving two per cent of his salary while the amount would be doubled by the railroad or steamship line employer.

Speaking on the "Problems of Labor," Radford urged the workers to organize into the unions of the American Federation of Labor, so that labor could be united in its full force to ultimately reduce working hours so that work may be provided for all. He said that labor now has its best opportunity to achieve its purposes, but he pointed to the need for education so that workers may socially adjust their minds to keep step with rapid changing mechanical processes.

Mr. Radford, who served as a labor organizer in the 1914 copper country strike and the more recent automobile strikes in lower Michigan, paid tribute to the men who took part in the San Francisco and Toledo walkouts.

"I am here to tell you that they they acted in the best interests of Americanism and Democracy," he asserted.

He criticized the newspapers for "garbling the facts" concerning the San Francisco general strike, and singled out William Randolph Hearst for a scathing rebuke. He charged the chain newspaper owner with spreading malicious propaganda, and labeled him as "Anarchist No. 1 in America."

Johnson Criticized

Gen Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, also was bitterly assailed by Radford. He charged that General Johnson, before he assumed his NRA post, was not favorable to labor, and he ridiculed his army record.

"As a veteran of the Spanish American and World wars, myself, I am here to say that General Johnson, as a soldier, never saw real service. The only powder he ever smelled is talcum. I call him a foreflusher to the core. I hope that soon someone else with a wider knowledge of the interests of labor will be placed in that position."

Radford also praised Tom Mooney, an inmate in San Quentin prison for the last 17 years in connection with the well known Los Angeles bombing case, as "a champion of labor." He said he was now actively interested in raising a fund to appeal Mooney's case to the U. S. supreme court.

Aged Rock Woman Dies At Detroit; Body Brought Here

Deer Are Plentiful In Upper Michigan

Good news about deer comes from R. L. Kinney, an old-time trapper who lives 30 miles west of Lake Superior and who has been watching the white-tails in both Minnesota and upper Michigan. After coming through last winter's severe weather in splendid condition, they are thicker than ever, he says.

Kinney says he has concluded that wolves are not the menace to deer that he once thought they were. He says the heaviest kill comes in the spring when the female wolf slays a deer or two to feed her over during the period of confinement."

WENDELL LUND ON TOUR AGAIN

Will Confer on Grazing Control Problem in Southwest

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Another trip to the Far West will be made by Dr. Wendell L. Lund, alumnus and former executive secretary of Augustana College and a native of Escanaba, Mich.

In company with a group from the Department of the Interior, Dr. Lund left Washington Sunday afternoon for Albuquerque, where the first of a second series of conferences will be held preliminary to setting up districts for grazing control under the Taylor act.

Acting as administrative assistant and secretary of the group, Dr. Lund will attend preliminary sessions after leaving New Mexico at Prescott, Ariz.. Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif., Reno, Nev., and Klamath Falls, Ore. The party may also go to Elko, Nev., and Spokane, Wash.

The conferences will be held to bring together stockmen in order to outline plans for controlling grazing under the Taylor law by setting up grazing districts under administration of the Secretary of the Interior.

Dr. Lund will act as aide to Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary of the Interior, who is in charge of the party.

The party will return to Washington during the first week in October.

During July and August the party made a swing through the Rocky Mountain states. After returning from his first trip two weeks ago, Dr. Lund spent several days visiting the upper Monongahela river valley in West Virginia, where the federal government contemplates the establishment of "organized rural communities."

Wilson Resident, Edward LaCross, Taken By Death

Edward LaCross, 69, a resident of Wilson for the past 46 years, passed away Sunday morning at 3:10 o'clock at a local hospital. He had been ill for five months, suffering from complications.

Mr. LaCrosse was born March 15, 1865 in Hemisen, Canada, and came to this country when a young man, settling in Wilson where he engaged in farming, and making his home there until his death.

Surviving are his wife, one son, William of Whitney, and four daughters, Mrs. Alex Jackomino, Norway; Mrs. Myrtle Boyd, Norway; Mrs. Leo Raiche, Wilson; Mrs. Louis Zimmerman, Canard, Mich.; a sister, Florence, of Louisan, Maine, and two sisters who live in Quebec; also twenty-one grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and was removed to the family home Monday. Services are being held this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock at the home and at 2 o'clock at Zion Episcopal church, Wilson, Archdeacon William Poyseor of Crystal Falls and Rev. Ward of Iron Mountain officiating. The services are according to central standard time.

Burial will be in Wilson cemetery in the family lot.

FILES PETITION FOR GRAND JURY

Miller Seeks Inquiry of Garden Finances for Years 1925-31

Prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller announced yesterday that he had filed a petition with A. T. Sohlberg, justice of the peace at Gladstone, for a one man grand jury investigation of the financial affairs of Garden township during the years Henry Gauthier and Eva Gauthier served as treasurers of the township. This period extended from April, 1925 to April, 1931 when Ossie Hazen assumed the treasurer's position.

The petition for the investigation, Attorney Miller indicated, is an outgrowth of the audit report submitted by the Lawrence Scudder Company, state auditors, which revealed a discrepancy of $10,554 in the township's finances as compared with the audited books.

In explaining the fact that the petition for the grand jury investigation was filed with Justice Sohlberg instead of Circuit Judge Frank Bell, Attorney Miller asserted that while Circuit Judge Bell was willing to conduct the investigation if the county prosecutor desired, his connection with the jury investigation would necessitate the securing of another circuit judge to sit on the bench in the event that the case was presented at circuit court.

It was indicated that the investigation before Justice Sohlberg will begin as soon as witnesses can be subpoenaed.

Iverson Bound Over On Forgery Charge

Following a hearing before Justice H. E. Ranguette, Iver Iverson, 31, of Newhall, was bound over to circuit court Tuesday on a charge of forgery. He is alleged to have secured $200 in cash from a local bank by using his father's pass-book and a forged authorization for the withdrawal.

Iverson was arrested in Detroit, and brought back to Escanaba by Sheriff William E. Miron and Deputy Harold Johnston. Bonds for the circuit court appearance were fixed at $1,000.

Musicians From Escanaba Prove Popular In Radio

Manley Anderson and Arol Beck, of this city, well known young musicians, both students at the Chicago Conservatory of Music who with a classmate at the conservatory, have been playing entertainment programs at Waunita Springs, Gunnison county, Colorado, during the summer vacation, left the resort on Sunday to fill a number of radio engagements on their return home.

The young men who have formed a musical trio, piano accordian, which Manley Anderson plays, string-bass, and piano, Arol Beck, and violin, which is played by the Chicago member of the group, will appear first in Dallas, Tex., and are then playing over stations KFXR and WKY, Oklahoma City, Okla., Kansas City, Kan., and Tulsa, Kla., and are filling several dance engagements on their return trip.

They plan to be in Escanaba about September 12.

"OF HUMAN BONDAGE"

The novel which unpretentiously emanated from a small cottage in England to impress a war-imbued world and garner classic fame and popularity through the years, finally comes to the motion picture screen.

"Of Human Bondage" has been cinematized by RKO-Radio Pictures, with Leslie Howard starred in the leading role of W. Somerset Maugham's story.

"Of Human Bondage" powerfully depicts the poignant drama of a physically handicapped youth whose disability earns him romantic tragedy. Crippled, sensitive, cultured, the hero of Maugham's novel, solicitous for love and understanding, thrusts himself impetuously on his first romantic adventure. He becomes infatuated with a tawdry, promiscuous girl. For escape, he turns to a compassionate, intellectual woman, but fails to reciprocate her love. Then a poor but well-bred woman offers him complete happiness.

The strange attachment to his first love persists, and he takes her back after her many recurrent departures with other men. Only her death affords him full freedom from the strange spell and the real enjoyment of life.

The dramatic action of "Of Human Bondage" passes against the colorful backgrounds of picturesque towns in France and England. Among the varied interesting settings are students' quarters, medical study rooms, typical London gardens and the Parisian art sector.

"Of Human Bondage" features a brilliant cast to support the high histrionic qualities of Leslie Howard. In prominent roles are Bette Davis, Frances Dee and Kay Johnson. Parts of lesser importance are undertaken by such fine players as Reginald Denny, Reginald Owen, Desmond Roberts, Alan Hale and Reginald Sheffield. John Cromwell directed from Lester Cohen's adaptation of Maughan's story.

Escanaba Candidate Has Not Quit Campaign, Says Sullivan

Peter L. Sullivan, upper peninsula campaign manager for Auditor General John K. Stack in his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, takes exception to a statement to an Associated Press story, which gives the impression that the Escanaba man has quit campaigning.

Mr. Sullivan explained that Stack has been speaking daily at gatherings and over the radio in Lower Michigan and will continue this program until the primary election.

Stack's speaking schedule for the remainder of the period follows:

Sept. 5—WIBM, Jackson.
Sept. 6—WBCM, Bay City, Saginaw in afternoon.
Sept. 7—WMBC, Detroit, Flint, Port Huron, Mt. Clemens.
Sept. 8—WJBK, Detroit.
Sept. 9—Various Detroit meetings.
Sept. 10—WJR, Detroit, and various Detroit meetings.

TO CONSIDER HOUSING ACT

Local Group Meets Tonight to Plan Modernization Drive

Organization of a committee to cooperate with a government agency in a local campaign to promote the home modernization phase of the National Housing Act will probably be made at a meeting to be held in the Legion hall this evening. Last week a preliminary session was held at which local supply dealers, bankers and various tradesmen were present. Tonight's session is open to all persons directly interested in the plan.

Both banks of the city, the First National and State Savings, are qualified as loaning agencies under the federal act. Representatives of both have signified that the institutions will cooperate in the local campaign.

It is planned to have the City club sponsor the drive in Gladstone. Information relative to the plan will be disseminated through various agencies and prospective borrowers will be assisted in planning improvements and securing loans.

Under the act, home owners may borrow from $100 to $2,000 to make improvements or modernize their homes. The money is advanced on notes running from one to three years, for which an interest charge of 5 per cent discounted is made. The home must be clear of indebtedness. The amount which can be borrowed is one-fifth of the amount of revenue which will be earned in the period for which the money is borrowed.

Government estimates are that one billion dollars should be spent in the modernization and new home building campaign, which is a part of the housing act and which will be started later, and that between three and six million workers will be given employment. It is believed that about $50,000 will be spent in Gladstone.

CONTRACTORS INSPECT SITE

Jacobson Brothers, Duluth, Expect to Get Postoffice Job

Victor, John and J. M. Jacobson of the Duluth, Minn., contracting firm which submitted the low bid on the job of constructing the United States postoffice in Gladstone were in the city yesterday to look over the job.

No contract has yet been let, according to Victor Jacobson, but he stated that he was confident his firm would be awarded the job. He stated that the trip here was merely to look over the site and contact excavating contractors and local supply men so that construction may be rushed when the contract is finally let.

The Jacobsons submitted a bid of slightly over $36,000 which was about $1600 less than the second high bid.

As yet the site which has been selected by the government, has not been acquired. Recently dates were set upon which payment was to have been made but postponements were announced. Within the past few days, the owner, Allan Reynolds, was advised that a check will be made out within the next several weeks. Reynolds is allowed 60 days from date of transfer for removal of buildings from the property.

Marquette Pistol Shots Take Firsts At Peninsula Meet

Gladstone shooters placed third in the team and fifth in the individual events in the Upper Peninsula Pistol matches staged Sunday at Crystal Falls, under the auspices of the Crystal Falls Gun club.

Marquette sharpshooters, for the second straight year, took first honors in both events. First, second and third places in the individual event went to V. C. Micklow, S. Micklow and B. T. Micklow respectively, all of Marquette, who turned in aggregate scores of 250, 247 and 240. Charles Begole of Marquette was fourth with 233 and Torval Kallerson of Gladstone was fifth with 228. Kallerson had high score at the 50 yard stage. H. Willis, F. Struble, H. Holmberg and H. Switzer, all of Gladstone, placed 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th. Twenty-six shooters competed.

In the team event, a Marquette quartet composed of the three Micklows plus A. Jeanson, took first with a score of 981 out of a possible 1200. Another Marquette team composed of S. B. Willis, J. Luoma, J. Johnson and H. Ulrich was second with 871; a Gladstone team, composed of Kallerson, Willis, Struble and Holmberg, was third with 852. Crystal Falls was fourth, a mixed team fifth and Iron Mountain sixth.

Local club members were loud in their praise of the Crystal Falls range which has been developed within the past several months by club members with the assistance of Crystal Falls business men.

Water Jeopardy Seen in Leakage Of Dakota Wells

Vermilion, S. D. (AP)—South Dakota's artesian wells, tapping a subterranean flow, are threatening a depletion of a water reservoir accumulated over a million years, says E. P. Rothrock, state geologist.

In making this observation he said the supply would be exhausted in "the not distant future," unless what he terms tremendous waste is curbed. The artesian well situation, he added, may be likened to "a vein of coal or an ore body wastefully exploited."

Uncontrolled flow from wild wells and underground leakage, he said, is jeopardizing the state's most valuable mineral resource for several generations.

ENROLLMENT IN SCHOOLS HIGHER

Tentative Figures Show Slight Increase Over Previous Year

Enrollment figures for Manistique public schools which opened the 1934-35 school year Tuesday were not all tabulated up to yesterday noon, but school officials are of the opinion that total enrollment will be slightly above that of last year, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The only definite statistics available were those for Manistique high school where yesterday's enrollment showed a total of 388 as compared with 383 for the year before. Most surprising was the large freshmen enrollment, the class numbering 121 as compared with 109 for last year. Several of the freshmen, however, are "holdovers" from last year, a few of the students not having amassed sufficient credits to conform to sophomore standards.

Although enrollments will fluctuate somewhat during the first week or so of school, indications point to a slightly larger number of pupils in the grade schools. Estimates made yesterday morning indicated a larger attendance at Lincoln school, Lakeside about the same as the year prior, and a decrease at Riverside. No figures were available for the junior high school where enrollment is estimated to be about the same as in 1933.

High school enrollment by classes, which is expected to increase during the week, is as follows:

Class	1933	1934
Freshmen	109	121
Sophomores	106	92
Juniors	92	94
Seniors	76	81
Total	383	388

TRACTOR BURNS

The Manistique fire department Sunday evening answered a call to Thompson where a tractor belonging to the county road commission was destroyed by fire. The origin of the blaze is not known.

Miss Genevieve Gorsche, Miss Elsie LaBar and Fred Kandell, returned Saturday evening from Kewaunee, Wis., where they had been visiting with Miss Rae Wright.

To The Voters
of Schoolcraft County:

I have very good reason to know that there is a certain candidate for sheriff peddling a certain radical amount of propaganda against me. He alleges that I am not a resident of Schoolcraft county and that I am not a taxpayer. To these statements I wish to say that I have resided in Schoolcraft county for fifteen years and have paid taxes for thirty-six years. I have also voted in this county. I am prepared to verify these statements.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM LAUX
Democratic candidate for Sheriff.

To Observe Church Night This Evening

Church Night will be observed this evening at the Methodist Episcopal church when a pot-luck supper will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the church basement and a splendid program will follow. Boxes for the building fund will be opened at this time.

Rev. George W. Wahlin, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, will be the principal speaker on a program of entertainment which will consist of instrumental and vocal music. Solos will be sung by Mrs. Lauritz Dreydahl and Harry Smith. Loreen Smith will offer a piano solo. Mrs. Kenneth Musson a reading. Dick Hoppins and Harry Smith will play a guitar duet, and the Misses Eleanor and Elsie Lofgren, piano and clarinet.

Local Anglers Hook 24 Trout Labor Day

One of the finest catches of the season was obtained Labor Day by C. J. Jansen and Rev. Joseph Grosa who hooked 24 beautiful speckled brook trout fishing at the headwaters of the Indian River.

None of the trout were under nine inches while five measured better than a foot in length. The fishermen used "muddlers" for bait. Owing to the brushiness of the stream, the anglers failed to land several big fellows. The catch was made on the last day of the season.

King Philip IV of Spain was seen to laugh in public only three times during his entire life.

The area of the oceans of the globe is 139,295,000 square miles.

New Survey Projects Proposed in Michigan

Houghton, Mich.—Several definite projects, designed to disclose the resources of Michigan for future development, were approved at the initial meeting of the Mineral Resource board of the Michigan Planning committee held at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton.

The first program to be attempted will be a survey, to be divided into three distinct projects; First, a horizontal control which involves the work of the coast and geodetic survey; second, an aerial survey, covering such counties which have not yet been surveyed; and, third, a topographic survey which is very incomplete in Michigan. This latter phase is particularly recommended for Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon counties in the copper district.

In addition to the technical work of field surveying, a coordination plan, correlating all existing surveys, will be attempted. Paralleling this state survey, a geological survey was recommended and a special committee appointed to map out that work. The committee includes F. G. Pardee, state appraiser of mines, chairman; Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of Michigan Tech, and Dr. T. M. Broderick and Dr. C. O. Swanson of the Geological department of Michigan Tech.

The geological survey will cover the copper district, the iron districts, the oil fields of the lower peninsula, the coal districts and some of the non-metallic areas of the state. Another geological project approved was a water survey covering the depth of water tables in the sandy areas of the northern part of the lower peninsula and the eastern section of the upper peninsula. The purpose is to determine the location of ground water for forest fire protection and agricultural development. This phase of the project was developed by R. A. Smith, state geologist, and P. S. Lovejoy of the Conservation department of the state. Another phase of the water survey, to be worked in co-operation with the stream control commission, will be an attempt to dispose of brines which are raised to the surface in oil operations.

A statistical project comprising the compilation and later the publication of data already accumulated by various divisions of the Conservation department also was approved. Glacial geology will be studied in the resort sections of the lower peninsula in the hope that methods of controlling levels of inland lakes will be developed. Sand and gravel deposits will be studied in cooperation with the state highway department; and the mining department of Michigan Tech was assigned the task of getting out a complete mining directory.

Silver and gold areas will receive special consideration in the program approved by the board and geologists will be assigned to that study. In connection with the geological survey in Houghton county, the geological committee approved setting up a project for trenching likely areas. Land owners will be asked to cooperate in the trenching program.

A geophysical project also was proposed, under the supervision of Dr. James Fisher, head of the Physics department of Michigan Tech. This survey will cover the copper district.

INLAND PICNIC HELD SUNDAY

160 Employes and Families Enjoy Outing At Hurska Farm

A crowd of well over 400 people attended the annual outing of the Inland Lime and Stone company held Sunday at the J. J. Hruska farm at Thompson. Despite inclement weather, rain fell throughout the afternoon, employes of the firm and their families thoroughly enjoyed a splendid program of entertainment including many competitive events, the majority of which were for women and children.

The Harbor employes defeated the Quarry men in a hard fought tug-of-war, while the Quarry crew secured sweet revenge by easily trimming the Harbor in baseball. In addition to the above events, the Nelson Twins staged an exhibition boxing match which left the crowd in an uproar.

Luther League Will Transact Important Business Thursday

The regular meeting of the Luther League will be held at the Zion Lutheran church parlors on Thursday evening at eight o'clock when an interesting program, headed by a talk by Mildred Wieland on "The Successful League," will be presented.

Important business matters will be discussed, the principal item of which will be a decision as to whether the league will function as one unit, as at present, or be organized into two sections, a junior and a senior league.

Other features of the program will be a chalk talk by Rev. and Mrs. George W. Wahlin and a vocal solo by Miss Bernice Carlson.

Following the program, refreshments will be served and games played. All members and prospective members are urged to be present at this important meeting.

U. P. Briefs

Mrs. Hornbogen Wins

Marquette—Mrs. Josephine P. Hornbogen was re-elected to the office of school trustee for a term of three years by a large majority at the school election held yesterday in the city hall. Despite the inclement weather and the holiday a large vote was cast.

Mrs. Hornbogen received 807 votes, while her opponent was given 128, the winner having a majority of 679. A total of 943 ballots were cost, of which eight were spoiled.

Longyear Plant Runs

Marquette—An optimistic outlook for increased industrial operations in Marquette was forecast yesterday with an announcement that the E. J. Longyear company has resumed operations in its plant at Michigan and Walnut streets for the first time since 1930. O. B. Anderson expressed an opinion that production will be maintained and possibly increased in the near future.

TRENARY NEWS

Trenary, Mich.—Miss Hilda Webber visited the Century of Progress in Chicago over the week-end. She was accompanied from Gladstone by her nieces, "Babe" Snyder and June Snyder and Morris White, all of Gladstone.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knaus visited with Mrs. Knaus' parents in Iron River over the week-end.

Rudolph Johnson who is a member of the CCC is visiting his parents at Winters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bennet have been called to Wisconsin by the death of Mr. Bennet's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Allen and three children of Lexington, Kentucky visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trenary. Mr. Allen is a professor in the University of Kentucky at Lexington and was a boyhood friend of Mr. Davis and Mr. Trenary when all three of them lived in Ossian, Indiana. This is the first time that he has seen either Mr. Trenary or Mr. Davis in thirty-five years.

Mrs. John Knaus was hostess Thursday to a group of young ladies from Traunik at a party in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Christina Knaus. Miss Knaus is taking nurse's training in Elgin and is home for a short vacation.

Jim Trenary, who is located in a CCC camp near Iron River, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Trenary.

Joseph O'Leary Jr., who is employed by the state highway department visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Leary Sr. of Chatham.

Miss Violet Brown arrived Sunday from Mankato, Minn., to resume her duties as instructor in the kindergarten and the first grade in the Trenary schools.

Koresh Funeral

A large crowd of friends attended the last rites of Joseph Koresh Sr., held Sunday from the St. Rita's Catholic church of Trenary. The funeral services were held at eleven o'clock after the regular Sunday services, burial was in the Trenary cemetery. Reverend Doucette of Trenary officiated at the services.

Mr. Koresh, who died Thursday at 9:30 p. m. in the Munising hospital has been ill for about two years, but his condition did not become serious until two weeks ago when he was taken to the Munising hospital. He was fifty-two years old and is survived by his wife and seven children.

Some of the people who attended the Trenary-Gwinn baseball game Sunday at Gwinn were George Maynard, William Orva, Edward Orva, Francis Cauchon, Miss Irene Webber, Miss Elizabeth Richmond, Walter Vogel, and Frank Carr.

The Trenary diamondball team was unable to play either one of their games last week. The Kiva game was called off because the Kiva team failed to show up, and the Chatham game was cancelled because of rain.

Jane Speilmaker has returned to the home of her father, Clyde Speilmaker, after spending the summer at a health camp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Herman Johnson arrived Friday morning from Cadillac and have moved into the Vaughan residence where they will make their home for the coming year. Mr. Johnson will be Trenary's new superintendent of schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Finlan and family, and Mrs. Finlan's brother, Mr. Wallace Peterson, of Menominee spent the week-end with Mrs. Finlan's relatives in Menominee.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—Financial markets had little appetite for post-holiday recovery today and the downward drift of prices continued in most departments.

Stocks, while not under excessive pressure at any time, were unable to climb out of the rut into which they slipped last week-end. Both public and professional indifference was exemplified by the fact that only 308,930 shares changed hands in the five-hour session.

Although leading issues were quite narrow throughout the slow proceedings, the Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks showed a net decline of half a point at 72. This average is now about mid-way between the year's low of 66.4 and the high of 79.4.

Those market commentators who had been optimistically forecasting a turn for the better in both prices and trading volumes after Labor Day were inclined to attribute their failure to call the cards partly to the timidity engendered by the textile strike which, it is feared, may retard recovery seriously if the walk-out lasts any length of time.

Some of the metal shares were a trifle soft in the early hours, but most of these ended with only small fractional declines. American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Bethlehem Steel and a number of others emerged with small advances. Case more than halved a 2-point loss. Such issues as U. S. Steel, New York Central, Santa Fe and National Distillers were only slightly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Sept. 4—Late rallies in wheat today that virtually overcame substantial preceding losses followed announcement the United States visible supply showed the earliest decrease in recent years.
A reduction of the domestic wheat visible supply at this season is most unusual as normally the stock does not start to decrease until after the turn of the year. Helping the late rally of wheat prices were indications that the peak pressure of newly harvested wheat in Canada would be passed this week.
Wheat closed irregular, ¼ off to 3-8 up compared with Saturday's finish, corn 5-8 to 7-8 down, oats 1-8 to 5-8 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.
Corn sagged owing a good deal to 1,745,000 bushels enlargement of the corn visible supply. Oats price upturns were associated with government buying for seed purposes.
Provisions developed firmness on account of excellent cash demand for lard and as the result of a more favorable outlook for exports.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—Renewed pressure on U. S. government issues, some of which lost as much as ¾ of a point, provided the only feature in an otherwise dull bond market today. Corporate loans were irregular.
Transfers approximated $18,617,000, par value, compared with $12,814,000 Friday. Of this total the turnover in governments accounted for $14,170,000 or more than 75 percent. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 60 domestic corporate issues declined three-tenths of a point to 83.8.

Trading Is Light
The forthcoming treasury financing, details of which will be announced next Monday, formed a lively topic of conversation in government bond circles as values fell still further away from Saturday's closing. Home Owners Loan 3s sold at a new record low at 97.10, off nearly ¾ of a point on the day, and the 4s were likewise at a new low at 97.10, off more than ¾ of a point.
Prime corporate investment issues moved in an uncertain manner with trading so light as to form no definite trend. American Telephone debentures 5s were ¼ higher at 109 while the convertible 4½s lost ¼ at 108¼. Burlington general 4s advanced ½ to 102½ and Union Pacific 4s were 1 3-8 higher at 95½. Fractional gains were held by some obligations of Skelly Oil, Wilson & Co., North American Edison, Midvale Steel, Detroit Edison, Cleveland Union Terminal and Bell Telephone of Penna.
Bonds selling slightly lower included some of Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Alton, St. Paul, Erie, Interboro, New York Dock, Portland Gas & Electric and Southern Pacific. Otis Steel 6s yielded 3 points to 62.

New York, Sept. 4—Plans for the revival of expansion of the country's foreign trade will be discussed at a meeting in New York on October 31 of the National Foreign Trade Council, of which James A. Farrell is chairman.

Purchases of American raw cotton by consumers in Poland increased 40 percent during the first half of the current year, according to reports to one of the leading Polish steamship companies, which added that there were 445 textile mills operating in that country at the present time with 2,000,000 spindles.

The National Association of Credit Men reports a continuance of the regular summer slump in sales and collections during the month of August with 11 percent of reports listing collections as "good," 25 percent as "slow," and 64 percent as "fair."

Shattuck-Denn Mining Corp. will resume operations at its Denn Mines, Bisbee, Arizona, within the next 2 weeks, it was announced today. The reason for resuming operations is to do certain underground developments, rather than to produce copper, it was stated, although a limited amount of copper ore will be sent to the El Paso smelter of the American Smelting & Refining Co. where it will be used as a flux with the increasing amount of siliceous gold and silver ores now being offered to that smelter.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank showed no imports and export of $4,988,700 to France. There was no change in the stocks held under earmark for foreign account.

Business failures in the United States for the week ended August 30 was reduced to 202 from 218 for the week previous, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. This compared with 311 and 549, respectively, for the same week of the two preceding years, the report states.

her, fretted over her. Why, sometimes at night she woke up in a cold fright, shivering at the thought that perhaps she would never see her mother again.
She shook off the sick fancy. Russ would do fine things, make something big of himself. Then she wouldn't be ashamed to go back home, face everybody. She had been foolish, hadn't given her marriage sufficient consideration beforehand. But she would show them some time that it had all been for the best.
Lou came in and lights went on garishly, brilliantly all over the small square rooms. The smell of frying meat and bubbling corn permeated the apartment.
"Aren't you hungry?"
"No. Not very. I—" Boots hesitated over the words—"I met an old friend. She took me to lunch."
Gloria's eyes lighted avidly. "The Ritz, huh, Guess you can't see our eats." Her face looked mean, looked curious in the bright glare of the overhead fixture.
"No," Boots said quietly. "Just a tearoom."
Lou ate quickly, noisily, not joining in the conversation. He did not believe in "jawing" at meal time, he often said. Eating was a serious business.
Boots offered to wash the dishes and Gloria, anxious to get back to her basting, did not protest. At nine o'clock when she was hanging the last pan on its hooks she heard Russ at the door. He came in briskly, bringing a breath of cold, fresh air with him.
"The boy wonder!" He thumped himself on the chest.
Boots ran into his arms. "You've got something?"
"Yep!" He held her off at arm's length. "A club at Miami. Better than the one last year."
Boots danced in sheer excitement. "Miami! I've never been there."
"Hold on a minute, kiddy. I can't take you with me. You'll have to stay behind—for a while at least."

CHAPTER XXIII

It was a raw, gray November morning. Boots, walking across Thirty-fourth street through whirling eddies of rain that threatened momentarily to turn into snow was conscious—in spite of a gnawing hunger at the pit of her stomach, in spite of the thinness of her shoes and the razor edge of the wind whipping her skirts about her knees—of a sense of adventure.
The job at Lacy's was already an old story to her. She had been in the chintz department for more than four weeks now, the lowliest of all the clerks. She had gone through the agonizing first weeks of learning to stand on her feet all day, amazed that the human body could stand so much pure torture without whimpering. At night it had been heaven to hobble back to her room to plunge those aching feet into a tub of warm water. Merely to rest, to sit perfectly still gazing into nothingness had been a sort of quivering bliss.
She was past that stage now. She could make out a sales check without trembling. She knew the colors and the designs: the Victorian cabbage roses, the blue chintz with the white stag design which all the decorators were using, the stars in red and white and all the others. She knew which were 79 cents a yard and which were less. She felt sometimes as though she never wanted to see a spray of hyacinths or a funnel of delphinium again. If she had a house of her own, she determined, savagely eyeing the pushing horde of women at the Monday sales, she would have the chairs upholstered in leather, the windows hung in oilcloth.
This was Monday again. Half past eight. The doors of the big store would presently be flung open and women from Brooklyn, Staten Island, from Westchester, from uptown Park Avenue, from the Bronx, from Chelsea and Queens and Teaneck would rush in. Five yards of this . . . six of that. Is this sunproof, miss? How much do I need for a chaise lounge slip cover? My change come back yet? Where is the china department now?
Already she heard their harsh, demanding, clamoring voices. The air would thicken. Scraps of paper would collect behind counters. Salesbooks would maddeningly lose themselves under bolts of material. The morning would drag on. She would go to lunch at half past 11. Forty-five minutes for lunch. It wasn't much. It meant she might go no further than the drug store around the corner. Lacy's had a lunch room for its employes but after one or two half-hearted sorties upon it, finding the food all tasted curiously like old boiled cabbage, the girl had given it up in favor of the inevitable sandwich and soft drink which comprises the midday meal of so many thousands.
She was getting $18 a week now and thought it wonderful. True it was not enough—it was not nearly enough—to keep body and soul together in this America's greatest and richest city, but it enabled her, in the day's phrase, to "get by." That was all anyone asked. . . .
Down in Greenwich Village in the apartment of a large, friendly Miss Glass of Virginia and rather untidy Mrs. Mooney, she had a box of a room for $5 a week. Sometimes when the weather was not too bad she walked to work, a matter of 20-odd blocks. She never walked at night, however. Her tired body protested that particular economy.
At first when Russ had announced he was going to Florida and that she was to be left behind, "for a time at least," Boots had been dazed with hurt and anger. What on earth should she do alone in New York? To stay with Russ's brother and his wife was unthinkable. Russ's suggestion that she go back to her father's house had met with silence, the silence of defeat, almost of contempt. She had been sullen, voiceless for a day or two as he went briskly about the business of packing. She had been conscious of sheer panic. Then the letter from Lacy's had come on the eve of Russ's departure. Would she report on the following morning? Part time work at $14 a week was offered her.
She had literally jumped at the chance. Russ had viewed the situation calmly. It had seemed to him perfectly all right that his wife should manage to exist on that sum. He had not waited to see her settled. His train had left the very night she had moved into the furnished room at Mrs. Mooney's.
Well, that was over now; the physical wrench of parting with Russ was over. She had been a bride a few short months ago. Now she was completely alone. In her heart she still confidently expected Russ to send for her. "Any day now," she assured herself stoutly. This was just a bitter interlude to be got through—wet shoes, aching feet, shabby carpets, food-smelling rooms. Soon she would be with her husband in a warm and sunny land with blue skies arching overhead. They had met and loved in an atmosphere of sunshine. This nightmare of cold winds and lonely nights would pass.
She was in the employes' elevator now, zooming upward. Sixth floor. Southern wear. Beach umbrellas and cork sandals a peach-colored jersey suit on a bronzed mannequin, lolling elegantly on a sand beach under brilliant simulated daylight. Boots caught her breath. She would buy just such a bathing suit as that before she left to join Russ. She had $8 saved toward her ticket. . . . Last week she had hoped to save more but she had had a cold and had had to buy medicine—a throat astringent and some rubbers. . . .
The dressing room smelled of wet wool and cheap scent. Girls milling around, touching up their hair, stowing boots into lockers. A jumble of words . . .
"And I just said to him, I said, 'What do you take me for?' . . . 'We went to Radio City. . . . Oh, the ballet was lovely.' . . . 'It's Coty's Paris; d'you like it.' . . . 'A double decker at the Barrel Bar' . . . 'they give you a dill pickle. . . .'"
A gong boomed somewhere and the chip-chip of feet in the corridor outside swelled to a symphony. Clerks from the aluminumware, clerks from the furniture department, from the shoes, the ribbons, the linens, the underwear, the millinery shop were all hastening to their posts.
A few girls nodded to Boots. That tall Miss Apfel from the awning materials gave her a pleasant smile. Boots had lunched with her one day. She was from upstate. She had, she confided, taken nurse's training but hadn't been able "to stand the gaff." She was plump but not overly strong. Very neat was Miss Apfel, in her dark wool, with the crisp organdie frill at the throat.
"Going to be a big day, dear," she whispered as they swung along toward their posts on the seventh floor.
Boots nodded. Monday was always terrible even with a long, lazy Sunday behind. At five o'clock on Mondays your feet ached with a slow, steady, blinding ache. . . .
The rush began. It seemed to Boots she did not really draw breath until 11:30. She had been so busy she had actually forgotten the 15 minutes' relief which was due her. This last customer tendered a $10 bill.
"I'll take the package with me."
Lacy's still used the antiquated change conveyor system. The customer's money was deposited in a sort of metal cradle along with the sales slip and dispatched in the pneumatic tube which shot to the nether regions where a cashier made the proper change.
The customer tapped her foot with nervous impatience and Boots, answering questions, throwing out bolt after bolt, measuring, cutting, was conscious of the narrowed eyes and frown, of the waiting woman. .
"Where on earth is my change? Black eyes snapped angrily.
"I'll see. Just a moment, madam."
Boots clicked the tube several times. There was no response. She went to the telephone and called the operator below stairs. The customer's impatience grew, deepened.
"There—there seems to be some difficulty," Boots explained.
"So I see." The woman bit her lips furiously. "Call the department manager, please."
Mr. Bliss, his white carnation proclaiming him one of Lacy's "trouble busters," came up, smiling urbanely.
"I gave this young woman a $10 bill ages ago," snapped the irate customer. "The change hasn't come back."
Mr. Bliss questioned Boots, telephoned, came back frowning. Miss O'Toole, he said, reported no $10 bill had been sent through the tubes from this station for the past half hour.
"But," Boots protested, "you saw me put it into the tube along with your sales slip." She turned her white face toward Mr. Bliss.
"I saw nothing." The woman lifted arrogant shoulders.
"It will be made good," Mr. Bliss assured her. He lifted his eyebrows in Boots' direction—a very aloof, assured, impeccable young man. He went off with the customer in tow.
"Go to lunch, dear," said Mary Asterson, one of Boots' counter mates a moment later.
"But what's going to happen now?" Boots stammered. Her head ached, her morning's hunger had settled like a kind of black sickness at the very core of her being.
"Oh, nothing much," Mary said airily. "The worst they can do is to take it out of your pay. Those things happen sometimes."

Curb Mart Records Narrow Changes

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—With trading volume around record low, the curb exchange recorded narrowly mixed changes today.
The list was slightly easier at the start and the lower price drift continued well into the afternoon. However, in the last hour prices turned upward and cancelled or reduced the early losses of fractions to around a point.
Utilities were rather resistant throughout the day. Oil, metals and alcohols ruled mixed. Commonwealth Edison, Sherwin Williams, Armstrong Cork, Humble Oil, Flintkote A and Fisk Rubber finished steady to slightly higher.
Dow Chemical lost 3¼ points. Pan American Airways dipped 2. Swift International was off a point while lesser recessions appeared in Electric Bond and Share, Swift & Co., International Petroleum, Aluminum Company of America and United Shoe Machinery.

CONES SHIPPED FOR TREE SEED

Over Thousand Bushels Collected by CCC In Hiawatha Forest

More than a thousand bushels of cones are being collected by the Civilian Conservation Corps camps on the Hiawatha National Forest, according to Ranger Geo. D. Ferrari.

Logging operations and good stands of timber are being searched for good seed to send to the nurseries for the growth of small trees to be shipped back to the National Forests for the tree planting program. There has been an unusually good seed crop this year and the forest service is taking every opportunity to collect all the cones they can.

There are to be 525 bushels of white pine, 535 bushels of jack pine, 215 bushels of norway pine, 240 bushels of white spruce and 30 bushels of black spruce cones to be picked by the camps this fall.

The seed will be shipped to the forest service nursery at Rhinelander where it will be separated from the cones. Some of it will then be planted at the nursery there, while the remainder will be returned to the forest service nursery at Manistique for planting. The jack pine remain in the nursery from one to two years, while the other species are allowed to grow two or three years before replanting. The small seedling will then be shipped to the various forests for use in planting areas which are now barren.

CHINA'S HERO HERE

"China's only hope is to resist and resist," General Tsai Ting Hai, commander of the famous 19th Route Army that held the Japanese in check at Shanghai, asserted on his arrival in New York, adding that he would join forces with any faction ready to dedicate itself to driving Japanese troops out of his native land.

Observance of Labor Day Big Event for Escanaba

Labor Day was celebrated in Escanaba Monday with appropriate exercises, featured by the largest and most interesting Labor Day parade seen here in many years.

The parade, in which more than four hundred union workers participated, along with commercial and civic organizations, was held in the morning on Ludington street. In the afternoon, a picnic was held at South Park, where various athletic events were staged and addresses on labor problems were delivered by Congressman Prentiss M. Brown and A. E. Radford, Pontiac, veteran organizer of the American Federation of Labor. John Luecke, president of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council, was chairman of the afternoon speaking program. Mayor Carl J. Sawyer delivered the address of welcome.

Unions March

The parade was headed by the Escanaba Municipal band, following which marched the members of the Paper Makers locals of Escanaba and Manistique, attired in white uniforms and with their characteristic paper hats, made of varied colored newsprint. Pulp and sulphite mill workers of both cities came next in the procession. Other unions taking part in the parade were those representing the brewery, dock, sheet metal, typographical, machinists, carpenters and railway workers.

An attractive patriotic float was entered in the parade by the American Legion and Auxiliary. The Gold Star mother in the float was Mrs. A. Roberts, 816 First avenue south, who held a flag brought back from France, where she visited her son's grave sometime ago. Mrs. Hugh Boyle, in portraying the war nurse, wore the same uniform she used when in the Red Cross service, during the World war. Archie Wood and Roy Baldwin were attired as a soldier and sailor, respectively.

Mules Lead Democrats

Both the Republicans and Democrats were represented in a separate rear section of the parade. There were a number of decorated automobiles advertising various candidates, several elephant figures mounted on cars, and two live donkeys.

In his brief address, Congressman Brown declared that the 73rd congress had enacted more far-reaching labor legislation than had been supplied by all other congressional sessions. He said that President Roosevelt holds the view that the returns to labor of all classes generally have not been sufficient to compensate for their toil.

"We know that the average worker cannot make enough in the productive years of his life to take care of himself and family in his old age," Congressman Brown said. "The Roosevelt administration is now making a study of various plans of social insurance, preparatory to introducing such legislation at the next session of congress."

The congressman mentioned briefly that the old age pension law, enacted in Michigan, although not perfect, is a step in the right direction. It should and undoubtedly will be better financed in the near future, he predicted.

Urged to Organize

Brown referred to the Crosser railway retirement act as the greatest piece of labor legislation passed by the last congress. He explained briefly that all railway employees who have attained the age of 65 years or have been 30 years in the service would be automatically placed in retirement. He said that the act will accomplish two purposes: namely, security in old age and reduction of unemployment by opening up jobs for younger men. He explained that the pensions would be financed by the employed worker giving two per cent of his salary while the amount would be doubled by the railroad or steamship line employer.

Speaking on the "Problems of Labor," Radford urged the workers to organize into the unions of the American Federation of Labor, so that labor could be united in its full force to ultimately reduce working hours so that work may be provided for all. He said that labor now has its best opportunity to achieve its purposes, but he pointed to the need for education so that workers may socially adjust their minds to keep step with rapid changing mechanical processes.

Mr. Radford, who served as a labor organizer in the 1914 copper country strike and the more recent automobile strikes in lower Michigan, paid tribute to the men who took part in the San Francisco and Toledo walkouts.

"I am here to tell you that they they acted in the best interests of Americanism and Democracy," he asserted.

He criticized the newspapers for "garbling the facts" concerning the San Francisco general strike, and singled out William Randolph Hearst for a scathing rebuke. He charged the chain newspaper owner with spreading malicious propaganda, and labeled him as "Anarchist No. 1 in America."

Johnson Criticized

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, also was bitterly assailed by Radford. He charged that General Johnson, before he assumed his NRA post, was not favorable to labor, and he ridiculed his army record.

"As a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars, myself, I am here to say that General Johnson, as a soldier, never saw real service. The only powder he ever smelled is talcum. I call him a foreflusher to the core. I hope that soon someone else with a wider knowledge of the interests of labor will be placed in that position."

Radford also praised Tom Mooney, an inmate in San Quentin prison for the last 17 years in connection with the well known Los Angeles bombing case, as "a champion of labor." He said he was now actively interested in raising a fund to appeal Mooney's case to the U. S. supreme court.

Aged Rock Woman Dies At Detroit; Body Brought Here

Mrs. Margaret Willette, 88, former resident of Rock, passed away Monday in Detroit.

The body is being brought to this city and will be taken to the Allo funeral home. Arrangements are indefinite, pending the time of the arrival of the body here.

Surviving Mrs. Willette are three sons, Cyril of Rock, Albert of Flint and Arthur of Codarre, Sask.

Mrs. Willette was widely known in the Rock community. She was a member of Branch Number 3, St. Croix society.

Deer Are Plentiful In Upper Michigan

Good news about deer comes from R. L. Kinney, an old-time trapper who lives 30 miles west of Lake Superior and who has been watching the white-tails in both Minnesota and upper Michigan. After coming through last winter's severe weather in splendid condition, they are thicker than ever, he says.

Kinney says he has concluded that wolves are not the menace to deer that he once thought they were. He says the heaviest kill comes in the spring when the female wolf slays a deer or two to tide her over during the period of "confinement."

Officers Elected By Escanaba Lions; Goulais President

Election of officers in Escanaba's newly-formed Lions Club took place at a dinner meeting at the Sherman Hotel last night. The following were chosen: President—A. J. Goulais, first vice president—Dr. Howard Johnson, second vice president—Edward Zillmer, third vice president—A. D. LaBranche, secretary and treasurer—Merton Jensen, Lion tamer—Austin Stegath, tail twister—Harry Ehnerd, directors—Atty. Harlan J. Yelland, Joe Carlson, Dr. Gordon Gleich and Frank Sheedlo.

The organization decided to continue the practice of holding meetings at 6:30 p. m. every Tuesday, and plans were laid for a charter night meeting on Sept. 18, which will also be ladies' night. The district governor of Lions and other guests will be present for this occasion. Appointments of committee chairmen are to be made by the president for presentation at the meeting next Tuesday evening.

Two Kansas City haberdashers staged a walking race to Excelsior Springs, Mo., a distance of 32 miles.

Citizens of Delta County

Election is near. It is our duty to look after our candidates for the public office who will be the peoples man. Sensible, Honest, Active and independent. Not a party nor a clique serf.

Stanley Mroczkowski (the Bark River Farmer), is one of the kind. Now he seeks the Republican nomination for the State Representative. He deserves our support beause he stands for secret non-partison primary elections. Fifty-percent sales tax reduction, income tax for school support and same justice for all. Vote for Stanley Mroczkowski September 11 and urge your neighbor to do so. He is the peoples man.
